American Pilots Sweep Japanese Planes Out Of Skies Over Solomons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—While American pilots swept Japanese planes out of the skies over the southern Solomons, U. S. Marines today consolidated gains made in a two mile advance west of Henderson Field on Guadalcanal in anticipation of fresh Nipponese land thrusts, despite an enemy retreat in one sector.

The marine advance, following retirement of the Japanese fleet under terrific aerial pounding, left no doubt that the enemy's latest all-out bid to recapture Guadalcanal was smashed, but navy men warned that the Nipponese undoubtedly were plotting to return.

First Round Over
Conservative navy communiques made no claims of any decisive victory in the continuing Solomons battle beyond providing support for Secretary of the Navy Knox's recent statement that the "first round-is over and they are waiting for the second round to start."

Most encouraging was the fact that the marines, aided by army troops, still are holding the airfield which they captured from the Japanese on Guadalcanal nearly three months ago, and in the meantime have made the enemy pay a terrific toll in ships, planes and personnel. Meanwhile, Japanese forces west of Henderson Field on Guadalcanal were reported "retreating slowly" in the sector where the marines advanced, and U. S. planes continued to hammer Nipponese positions and troop concentrations. Reporting action on Nov. 1, the Navy said:

"On Guadalcanal Island a small force of U. S. Marines, supported by Boeing Flying Fortresses, crossed the Matanikou river and attacked the enemy to the westward. One wave of marines made an advance of two miles with comparatively few casualties.

"U. S. fighters and dive bombers attacked enemy positions on Guadalcanal throughout the day. Enemy (Continued On Page Two)

National Observers Are Somewhat Puzzled On Election Outcome

By HAROLD SLATER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Casting an indirect verdict on President Roosevelt's administration of America's war effort, 30,000,000 voters cast today on a new house of representatives, a third of the U. S. senate and 33 governors in the first national election since Pearl Harbor.

The president's wartime policies were a general issue, although many contests will be decided on local issues. The balloting was in 47 states, Maine having voted Sept. 12 and given the Republicans a sweeping victory.

Disagreement On Election
There was widespread disagreement in Washington over what is happening at the polls today. It was entirely possible that the voters were staging a political revolution to turn control of the house of representatives over to the Republicans, as they did in 1918 in the midst of the first world war.

Formal forecasts varied. Democrats generally conceded the Republicans would score scattered gains in the house, senate and gubernatorial mansions but insisted the president would retain a comfortable New Deal control of the house and senate. Republicans formally claimed a gain of 35 seats in the house—a gain of seven senatorial togas and four or five governorships. This would constitute a sweeping Republican victory.

Facts On Today's Election In State Of Pennsylvania

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—Pertinent facts on today's balloting, the first wartime election to be held in Pennsylvania since 1918.

Polls are open in the state's 8135 precincts from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. An estimated 4,600,000 voters are eligible to vote, including 2,600,000 Republicans and 1,950,000 Democrats. Republicans hold an edge in registered voters of 650,000.

Six state offices will be filled, namely, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs, justice of the supreme court, judge of the superior court, and representative-at-large in congress. In addition, 42 congressmen, 25 state senators and 208 assemblymen will be elected by districts.

CAIRO, Nov. 3.—The clash of armored units reverberated throughout the western desert of Egypt today as Allied and Axis tank forces engaged in heavy fighting after a smashing new attack in which the British Eighth Army made an important advance south of the El Alamein coastal area.

Warfare was intensified throughout a wide area of north Africa as allied forces ranged afar to deliver heavy blows against vital Axis bases in Libya, on the island of Crete and at sea.

Axis Destroyers Hit
Direct hits were scored upon two Axis destroyers by heavy bombers which attacked southwest of Crete.

An Axis merchantman was set afire when an escorted convoy seeking to supply German and Italian forces was attacked off the Libyan port of Tobruk.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's whole right flank should be jeopardized if allied forces in Egypt are able to exploit their latest smashing advance south of the El Alamein coastal area, an authoritative British spokesman said today.

The most important feature of the new advance by Lieut. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's forces is that it was achieved to the south of the El Alamein and Sidi El Rahman sector of the Mediterranean coast, the spokesman said.

The British success would suggest that Rommel has been forced to weaken his hold on the arc which extended eastward half around the British positions, he added.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 3.—Allied troops on the island of New Guinea "have recaptured every foot of ground lost in their previous withdrawal," Lieut. Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander of ground forces in the southwest Pacific, announced today.

"They are now beyond Kokoda," he said.

"The Japanese no longer show readiness to meet them in battle."

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Nov. 3.—Keen-eyed American gunners, who shot down seven Japanese Zero planes during a raid on Rabaul, New Britain, were included in a group of U. S. Air Corps men decorated today for gallantry and heroism.

Silver stars were awarded to the following men of Flying Fortress crews who blasted Japanese ships in the Rabaul harbor: Sergt. Elvin Moncrief of Berea, O.; Marion Fillgenzi of Erie, Pa.

Silver stars were awarded also to Sergt. Jack Delaney of Newark Valley, N. Y.; Corp. Paul Harmon of Cumberland, Md., and Pvt. A. G. Osborn of St. Joseph, Md.

County Scrap Total Mounts To 35,540 Tons

Lawrence county's scrap total for the collection during October now totals 35,540 tons, according to Ross D. Rosenberger, county salvage chairman, or about 50 per cent more than the total turned in when the original collection period ended. This total was 24,307 tons. The latest total, 71,080,000 pounds, is a per capita average of about 733 pounds for the county, an almost unbelievable record.

A pennant is to be awarded by the government for any county getting a per capita of 100 pounds. This figure was almost reached by Lawrence county in its general salvage which amounted to 4524 tons. The special projects totaled 18,049 tons and the industrial salvage totaled 12,967 tons.

Pittsburgh, with a population about six times as great as all of Lawrence county, had a general scrap collection of only one-third that of this county. The townships of Lawrence county, which does not include any of the boro's, turned in 1925 tons.

Today, scrap dealers are on tour with the salvage committee over the northern portion of the county, buying the scrap piles. Tomorrow they will tour the southern end of the county.

Jap Convoy To New Guinea Is Badly Routed

U. S. Bomber Attacks Play Havoc With Intended Reinforcements For Japs

CONVOY CRIPPLED FORCED TO RETREAT

Vital Village Of Kokoda Airdrome Recaptured By Australian Forces

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, Nov. 3.—The Japanese foothold on the strategic island of New Guinea was measurably weakened today as United Nations forces crippled and drove off a fresh invasion convoy headed for the north coast of Papua and ousted enemy troops from the town of Kokoda in the Owen Stanley mountain range.

United States Flying Fortress bombers headed off the convoy of two transports, a light cruiser and a destroyer steaming down from New Britain island, shot five of nine accompanying Zero fighter planes out of the air and subsequently scored a direct hit on one transport.

Force Ships To Retire
While the convoy was discovered moving in the direction of Buna, Jap coastal base on the north shore of southeast New Guinea, with troops and equipment to reinforce beleaguered Jap units along the Kokoda mountain trail, the large allied bombers scored many near misses which damaged the ships and forced them to retire northward.

Near hits were made alongside both transports, two bombs dropping within 15 feet of the port bow of one of the vessels when the aerial attack was launched in mid-afternoon.

Two bombs hit within 25 feet of the second transport.

Just before dusk the Flying Forts renewed their attack as the convoy was making its way back off the south coast of New Britain island and scored a direct hit on one transport and many near hits on both.

A late report to headquarters said that the worst damaged transport (Continued On Page Two)

Knox Warns On Undue Optimism

Secretary Says Battle Not Over

Admits However Jap Losses Probably Larger Than First Announced

BITTER FIGHT IS STILL CONFRONTED

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Despite America's "signal success" in the current Solomons battle, secretary of the Navy Frank Knox warned today against undue optimism over the south Pacific situation.

"There is no warrant for optimism," Knox said at his press conference this morning. "It's still a bitter, tough fight. They (the Japanese) have a fleet of formidable proportions left."

"It's dangerous to assume that they won't be back."

At his press conference last Friday afternoon, the secretary said that the Jap fleet had left the Solomons area.

Knox said that he detected a disposition on the part of the press and the public to grow too optimistic "due to our signal success in the first round of the Solomons battle."

He referred specifically to newspaper headlines following the navy's official announcement that U. S. Marines on Guadalcanal advanced two miles against the Japanese and that the enemy forces were "retreating slowly" in one sector near Henderson Airfield.

Knox previously intimated that America's Pacific fleet had scored a limited victory by forcing Japanese warships to retire from the scene of action around the Guadalcanal area.

"It's still a bitter, tough fight," Knox continued. "We haven't any doubt that they will come back. Any assumption that this is all there will be of the operations is unwarranted."

"I don't want to build up optimism that will be punctured later by a desperately hard fight which lies ahead."

Navy Conservative
The secretary emphasized the conservative manner in which navy communiques reported damage to the Japanese.

He referred specifically to a night naval battle on Oct. 11 which the navy reported ended in the destruction of one Japanese cruiser, four destroyers and one transport.

Since that time, Knox said he had occasion to talk to Vice Admiral Robert H. Ghormley, former commander-in-chief of the Solomons action, and the admiral told him actually five destroyers and three enemy cruisers probably were sunk in the engagement.

Knox also paid tribute to America's submarine fleet which he said has been doing an outstanding job against Japanese shipping in Far Eastern waters.

Only yesterday the navy reported that American submarines had sunk seven more Japanese supply ships, and damaged three others including a converted carrier.

"This is primarily a war of attrition in the Pacific," Knox continued, "and no arm of the service is more important in a war of attrition than the submarine branch."

"I am as proud as I can be of any part of the navy and particularly proud of the submarines. They have done an amazing and outstanding job and their losses have been extremely light."

NATIONAL OBSERVERS SOMEWHAT PUZZLED ON ELECTION OUTCOME

ican victory, but would leave Mr. Roosevelt with friendly majorities on Capitol Hill.

Trend Republican
Polls and confidential reports to politicians in Washington indicate a definite trend to the Republicans.

In New York, Thomas E. Dewey is expected to win the governorship and lead the Republicans to an overwhelming state-wide victory.

Similar optimistic Republican reports indicate GOP victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, the Midwest and the Pacific coast. If all these reports are true, the Republicans can well capture the house of representatives.

The only real upset that could take place today would be a Democratic landslide in the north and west. Not even the most hopeful New Dealer in Washington has ventured to make such a forecast.

The house today stands: Democrats 258, Republicans 165, others 5, vacant 7.

Six of the vacancies were held by Democrats. To win control of the house, therefore, the Republicans must gain 52 seats and re-elect their present membership, including the vacant GOP seat. A gain of 35, as claimed by their leaders, would give the new house this division: Democrats 229, Republicans 201, others 5.

This outcome would rob Mr. Roosevelt of actual control of the house, since there are at least 20 old-line Democrats ready to join the Republicans in any revolt certain of success.

In the senate, the president's control seems assured, whatever is the outcome of today's voting. There are 41 Democrats, 30 Republicans and one Progressive holding-over from previous elections, with one Republican (White, Maine) already re-elected and but 33 senate seats at stake today. If the Republicans gain good on their forecast of gaining seven senate seats, the new senate would line up with 59 Democrats, 36 Republicans and one Progressive.

Following the vote on the defeat of the veteran Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, which is freely predicted in Washington.

Yet every problem of the draft and of manpower could be solved without legislation if Washington had administrative ability and guts.

Deaths of the Day

J. Newton Wagner

A lifetime resident of Lawrence county, J. Newton Wagner, aged 75, of 928 Adams street, died at his home Monday evening at 6:45 o'clock after a month's illness. He had been in failing health for about a year.

Mr. Wagner was born June 27, 1867, at Rose Point, a son of John and Mary Manning Wagner. He was a member of the Third United Presbyterian church, the Men's Bible class of that church and the Lodge of the Craft. He had been a contract painter for many years.

Surviving are his wife, Virgie P. Myers Wagner, to whom he had been married 50 years; three sons, Claude M. of E. D. 3, New Castle, Lester D. of Franklin, George A. of New Castle; 11 grandchildren; one great-grandson, and two sisters, Mrs. George Fox of Ellwood City, and Mrs. William Seth of Oil City.

Friends may call at the residence until Wednesday at noon when the body will be taken to the Third United Presbyterian church where it may be viewed until time for services, 2:30 o'clock, when the casket will be closed, Rev. C. R. Thayer, pastor of the church, will officiate at the services. Interment will be in Castle View Burial Park.

Wilbur P. Kirk.
Wilbur P. Kirk, a highly respected resident of his community, died Monday evening at 6:45 o'clock at the home of his son, Howard R. Kirk, R. D. 2, New Wilmington. Death was caused by infirmities of age.

A lifetime resident of his community, Mr. Kirk was born April 4, 1853, on the same farm on which he died, a son of William and Mary Simson Kirk. He was a farmer by occupation. Since early boyhood, he had been a member of White Chapel church. In 1888, he married Margaret E. Bagnall who preceded him in death seven years ago.

Survivors are two sons, Scott of Volant, Howard S. of R. D. 2, New Wilmington; six grandchildren; five great-grandchildren, and one sister, Anna Kirk of New Wilmington.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his son, Howard, near White Chapel church. Rev. A. J. Renwick and Rev. Homer K. Miller, both of Volant, will officiate. Interment will be in Mercer cemetery.

The body, removed to the Cunningham funeral home at Leesburg, will be taken to the residence this evening.

Mrs. Bishop Funeral
Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Bishop were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 314 Cunningham avenue. Rev. Adam E. Simon, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, officiated.

pallbearers were George Baker, Jack Rhodes, Robert Rhodes, Robert Bishop, Robert Gaston and James Rhodes.

Interment was in Graceland cemetery.

artillery was silenced and the Japanese were reported to be retreating slowly."

The navy has reported more than 76 Japanese ships of all types sunk or damaged in the entire Solomon campaign while United Nations airmen during the same period accounted for at least 67 Japanese ships sunk or damaged.

According to navy communiques only 12 Jap ships are listed as sunk, three probably sunk and 61 damaged, but many of the latter may have gone down later, especially the four aircraft carriers which were hit.

Australian Report
Australian reports indicated 17 Jap ships of all types sunk, 16 probably sunk and 34 damaged in attacks on enemy concentrations in the northern Solomons and other southwest Pacific bases.

In addition, the navy listed more than 529 Jap planes destroyed since Aug. 7 in the Solomons, while airmen from Australia reported an additional 13 enemy aircraft, practically all fighter planes.

During the same period the United States lost two aircraft carriers, three cruisers and 11 other vessels sunk and an undisciplined number of vessels damaged. American planes losses have not been tabulated.

night that letters have been sent to all members throughout the county asking them to participate in the parade.

Large Float Division
There will also be a large float division of which Fire Chief James E. Thomas is chairman. Prizes totaling $10 will be given for the best floats in the parade, the top prize being $35 and ranging from there down to $5. This should result in a large number of entries, and already many have signified their intention of putting floats in the parade. Any others wishing to compete are asked to notify Chairman Thomas, or Parade Marshal R. L. Boyd. The judges will be Gene Scanlon, Ralph G. Galbreath and Jack Galbreath.

Chairman Arnold Bamsley, in charge of the bands, announced that assurances have been received from eleven bands, with the possibility of a twelfth participating. They are: American Legion Cadets, Senior high school, Croton school, Mt. Jackson, Bessemer, Ben Franklin Junior High, Union High, Westminster College, Wampum high, Italian Red Coat, Shenango high school, and Mahoningtown school.

Following the parade, there will be a military ball in The Cathedral, for which tickets will be distributed. Those with tickets are expected to buy a 25 cent war stamp to gain admission, and representatives of the Post Office will present to sell these stamps. Dance Chairman Cecil Suber reported. All service men in uniform will be admitted without this requirement.

It was further emphasized that only the American flag will be permitted in the parade, although organizations can carry their standards identifying the organization.

Further details are expected to be made public later in the week by the committee.

Damaged American Carrier Sunk By Us

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—The hard-driving chairman of Pittsburgh's salvage division of civilian defense, Henry J. Yute, was dead today, the victim of a heart attack. He was 45 years old.

Yute, for the past six months has been working 12 to 20 hours a day, seven days a week, in an endless struggle to get in the scrap for the war effort.

For six years Yute was director of the department of supplies for the city of Pittsburgh. He was appointed head of the salvage division of the Civilian Defense Council of the city early this year.

port was observed burning off the port of Gasmata early this morning.

Strafe Transports
Both the transports, aboard which the Japs had an estimated 7,000 troops, and the escorting war vessels were strafed by machine-gun fire from the allied planes, all of which returned safely to their bases.

Announcement of the attack on the Jap convoy was made in a communique which told of the recapture of the vital village of Kokoda by Australian jungle fighters. The town, situated on the north slope of the Owen Stanley range, lies midway between the allied base of Port Moresby and Jap-held Buna.

A spokesman at headquarters revealed that allied ground forces had regained control of the Kokoda air-drome in the successful drive and were continuing to pursue the retreating Japs toward Oivi.

The attack on the invasion convoy began in waters southeast of Jap-held Salamaua, in northeast New Guinea, and off the New Britain coast.

Continuous Bombardment
Flying Fortress and B-25 bombers kept up a continuous bombardment throughout the afternoon yesterday against the warships and transports judged to have been 12,000 and 10,000 tons respectively.

When the convoy turned and fled in retreat allied bombers went out over the sea until long after dusk to inflict further damage on the vessels.

Bitter dog fights occurred throughout the day between allied bombers and Zero-type Jap fighters over Buna, Lae and over the sea.

Headquarters spokesmen said that the increased number of Jap fighters reported over New Guinea Sunday most likely were brought in by the enemy with the intention of providing a cover of the attempted new landings at Buna.

Seek To Hold New Guinea
The size of the transports used by the Japs, the warship escort and the fighter umbrella indicated the extent of the Jap determination to make a desperate stab to hold New Guinea despite their rapidly deteriorating position in the Owen Stanley sector.

The willingness of the Jap high command to risk large transports was indicative of the importance attached to New Guinea by the enemy.

The significance of the recapture of Kokoda was almost dwarfed by the frustration of the Jap landing attempt but it is important when it is realized that the allies now control the air-drome on the northern slope of the mountains. Kokoda's air-drome never was utilized by the Japs but informed sources say it still is tenable and suggest that the recapture will greatly relieve the supply problem for allied forces pushing the Japs back toward Buna.

It was disclosed also in the communique that a strong force of medium B-26 bombers caused heavy destruction in a raid against the port of Dilli on Timor island. The village of Bonorano also was attacked and troop barracks set afire while other buildings were strafed by machine-gun fire.

This was the first instance where the use of B-26 bombers was mentioned in a MacArthur communique. The new assignment for the speedy medium bombers was believed an indication of the increasing importance with which the allies look upon the island of Timor.

Battle Continues
Last reports said the action was continuing and the official communique termed the fighting "heavy."

The British drive was undertaken after dominating forces in the coastal areas beat down a second series of counter-assaults by Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Considerable damage was inflicted on German and Italian positions by a joint bomber and naval aircraft attack on the battle area, Gen. Alexander reported.

Light bombers meanwhile concentrated intensive strafing and bombing attacks against Rommel's troop concentrations.

"During Sunday night heavy enemy attacks on our positions in the coastal area were repulsed and our positions maintained," the communique said.

Infantry Advance
"Further south in the early hours of yesterday our infantry attacked and made an important advance. Many prisoners were taken in these operations."

An armored battle on a considerable scale developed and continued all day.

"Heavy fighting continues. A strong force of bombers together with naval aircraft attacked enemy positions in the battle area continuously during Sunday night. Excellent targets were located and much damage was caused."

"Light bombers continued their intensive attacks in the battle area yesterday upon enemy concentrations."

NALCHIK CAPTURE BY GERMANS NOT OF GREAT VALUE

finding themselves unable to rupture the Moxdok defenses and open the way southward to Tiflis, felt the increasing need of winter quarters to wait out the snows under roofs.

This would explain their seemingly spiritless assault on Nalchik.

The only real advantage in German possession of Nalchik is that it is the southern terminus of a military road running down from the occupied region and might therefore facilitate shipment of supplies into the Moxdok area.

A flat map might lead distant observers, unacquainted with the terrain to believe that capture of Nalchik opens the way southward to Ordjonikidze, from where the Georgian military highway extends south to Tiflis. Actually, however, Nalchik is situated on a 6,000-foot high plateau, the northern approach to the forbidding Caucasus mountains, and there is no road through the hills from Nalchik to Ordjonikidze.

Nazi Situation Unimproved
The fact is the Germans have not improved the military situation for any drive to the south Caucasus by the capture of Nalchik, but

It is not too late to vote. The polls do not close until 8 o'clock.

At the various polling places around the city and county, the boards were in place and the polls opened before daylight for the first time in many years. The reason was wartime which is now in effect.

Resurfacing of Mill street, Mahoning avenue and Cedar street will mean a lot of tire saving on the trips between Seventh Ward areas and uptown New Castle.

One of the stores along Washington street is preparing a sign that says "Air Raid Shelter No. 1."

ing to adjudicate any disputes had little to do. One or two requests were made to him for information as to whether a man moving out of a precinct recently could vote. The answer was no.

Political headquarters are deserted today, the workers who have been in them for the past two weeks being out checking at the polls. Polls opened at seven o'clock this morning and will keep open continuously until eight o'clock tonight.

Because of the short ballot and the expected light vote it seems likely that the results in this county may be known at a fairly early hour.

DR. AND MRS. J. FOSTER ENTERTAIN YUCATANS

Yucatan club members were entertained in the home of Dr. and Mrs. John Foster on North Mercer street, Monday evening, with four handed euchre providing the pastime.

For the men, J. Norman Martin carried off the award while the ladies prize fell to Mrs. Albert Harrison. The guest trophy was drawn by Mrs. James D. Crawford, who also aided Mrs. Foster with the tasty repast served.

Next meeting on November 17 will be with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Offutt, North Mercer street, hosts.

D. A. R. CHAPTER TO MEET ON SATURDAY

Members of the Lawrence chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be entertained for their November meeting, Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. F. E. Sowersby, 412 East Winter avenue.

Reports of the state conference will be given during the afternoon. Roll call answer will be "A Hero of Our Country's Wars."

Associate hostesses with Mrs. Sowersby will be Mrs. Earl H. Weitz, Mrs. A. T. Eckles, Miss Mary E. Browne, Mrs. John O. Huston, Mrs. Benjamin Beisel, Mrs. Joseph M. Walker, Mrs. Earl M. Cass, Mrs. C. R. Balph, Miss Helen L. Moseley, Mrs. DeGrimm Renshaw.

Bowling Team Has Party

Mrs. Dean Forrest of 919 Marshall avenue entertained fifteen members of the Community Bowling team in her home Sunday evening. Guests came masked and Halloween games were played. Prizes both for costumes and games fell to Millie Dewberry, Catherine Khun, Thelma Gardner, Mrs. Bob Mackie, Madeline Gibson, Betty Trimbelle and Alice Cunningham.

Lunch was served later by the hostess and her daughter, Betty Ruth.

Tau Deltas Thursday

Members of the Tau Delta Class of the Epworth Methodist church will meet with Mrs. Humphrey Richards of 626 Raymond street on Thursday evening, instead of this evening, the usual date.

READING CIRCLE '91 AT SHIPLER RESIDENCE

Mrs. W. H. Shippler of Highland avenue opened her home to the Reading Circle '91 membership Monday afternoon, with president Mrs. Tom Lindsay presiding over the routine period. "The Name of an Important Building in Russia" was given in answer to roll call.

Mrs. Lindsay announced the following program. An imaginary trip was taken by three of the membership, Mrs. W. H. Shippler, Miss Ireta V. Dart and Mrs. W. E. Porter, who told in a descriptive and detailed manner of "What They Would See in Russia," their topic. This was cleverly and entertainingly given. The next feature dealt with the "Political state of Russia" which was followed by Mrs. Roy Jamison. A general discussion concluded the afternoon's program, with Mrs. S. M. Matheny, critic.

On November 16 Circle of '91 will meet with Mrs. Harry Marshall on Crawford avenue.

Entertains For Mother

Master Neal Williams, 3rd, of Court street was a charming host Thursday evening when he entertained surprise fashion to honor his mother, Mrs. Clara M. Williams, on her birthday anniversary.

The hours were spent playing guessing games and at the close of the evening the host served a lunch by candlelight. Assisting throughout the evening were the host's aunt, Mrs. Henry Jenkins, and grandmother, Mrs. Percy H. Ashton. The honored guest received a collection of lovely gifts.

Federation Juniors Change

A change has been announced in the program for Federation Juniors meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur B. Alexander, 1909 Delaware avenue. Mrs. J. J. McIlwaine will review the "Clubwoman's Creed" for the group at this meeting.

The club also plans to sew for Bundles for America.

Party At Herberg Home

On a recent date, Helen Mae Herberg entertained at her home on Locust street, a number of her chums, at a Halloween party. The time was spent informally with a varied program in keeping with the season.

Lunch was served to fourteen at the close of the entertainment.

ROBERTA H. ALLEN TO MARRY ROD EDWARDS

At a party given last evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allen, R. D. 2, New Castle, announcement was made of the engagement of their daughter Roberta to Rod Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Edwards of West Washington street.

The news came as a surprise to associate graduates of the honoree's class at Jameson Memorial hospital school of nursing, who had supposedly gathered for an informal social time. The names "Roberta and Rod" were written on cards used for place markers when lunch was served. Miss Allen was aided by Miss Virginia Szeko with the menu.

The prospective bridegroom will soon be graduating from the officers training school at Fort Sill, Okla., when he will return here for a few days leave.

LEGION AUXILIARY PLANS FALL EVENTS

American Legion Auxiliary members, met Monday night in the Legion home, with Mrs. J. Roy Jones, president, in charge of the routine period. Reports were contributed, and final plans were made for their Poppy Day sale, which falls on Saturday, November 7. Also, it was announced that members will take part in the Armistice Day parade to be put on in New Castle.

Their annual Thanksgiving program for the Almira Home ladies on Wednesday, November 25, were outlined, this to be presented in their residence home.

A social period ensued, with Mrs. Ruth Connors receiving the white elephant gift.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hazel Cooper and Mrs. Frances Cope at the close of the evening.

On Monday, November 16 when they meet again at the Legion Home, Mrs. Marvin Dinsmore, Mrs. Sam McBride and Mrs. William Brooks will be in charge of the social period.

Mothers Class Meets

Arrangements were made for a Christmas party and dinner to be held in the home of Mrs. Henry Gibson, South Mill street, when members of the Mothers class of the Matilda Memorial Primitive Methodist church met Monday evening in the Y.W.C.A.

After a social time, during which games were enjoyed under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lewis, a Thanksgiving lunch was served by the hostesses. Hostesses were Mrs. Richard Boughton, Mr. George Cowmeadow and Mrs. Joe MacKenzie. Next meeting will be at the Y.W.C.A. on Monday, December 7, with Mrs. Elvina Yoko, Mrs. Henry McMullen and Mrs. Irving Tait as hostesses.

GUEST DAY—SPEAKER FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

"Guest Day" was beautifully observed Monday afternoon by members of the Woman's Club and their friends at Highland United Presbyterian church, when they met for their October assembly. Presiding before a well attended event, was past president, Mrs. John E. Elliott in the absence of their president, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser. Introducing the afternoon's feature was Mrs. William Caldwell of the program committee, who paid tribute to the artists who were to be heard during the course of the afternoon. They stressed "Gilbert and Sullivan" of light opera fame whose centenary anniversary is being observed throughout the land and where Warren Lee Terry, the foremost exponent of these great artists who himself is a well known operatic tenor, and comedian, and Mrs. Kathryn Nessel Allen, well known in this community for her musical work, who accompanied Mr. Terry.

Something out of the ordinary was the offering of Mr. Terry who in his lecture recital of the well known operatic collaboration of "Gilbert and Sullivan" demonstrated his popularity fine background, magnetic personality and excellent showmanship.

Vocal selections given by Mr. Terry were taken from the following operas, "Thesbe," "Trial By Jury," "Sorcerer," "Pinafore," "Iolanthe" and others. Election and announcements of new members brought the afternoon's program to a close.

Mrs. Charles E. Allen reported the work done by the Woman's Club alone, toward selling of bonds and stamps.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. W. P. Felch and Mrs. Elijah Kaplan who greeted guests upon their arrival. On November 16, Dr. Walter Reed Hovey will give his impressions of "American Art."

Halloween Party

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Wiles, Butler avenue extension, entertained a group of friends, former students of grades six and seven at Aiken school, at a party in their home recently.

After dinner was served at two long tables, games were played with prizes going to Mrs. Edna Nicholson, Mrs. Helen Brown, Mrs. Edna McCarthy, Charles Miller, Arthur McCarthy and Irving Tait.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Nicholson of Ellwood City and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McCarthy of Parnell. Mrs. Moser was a special guest.

Oh! Boy! That long-awaited "Juke Box Saturday Night" by Glenn Miller is released at last. There have been more pre-release requests for this than any other Victor recording—it's a new novelty. Come in to listen.

"Pennsylvania Polka" on the up swing, is a sprightly little ditty as arranged by Art Kassel on a Bluebird recording.

Music Is Essential.

"Soft Hearted"—a fine new ballad from "Seven Days' Leave"—a great number by Freddy Martin and now released by Tony Pastor.

Religion and Music make a house a home.

Benny Goodman occupied the clarinet first desk when Arturo Toscanini conducted Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" last Sunday in the opening N. B. C. Symphony concert.

Jeanette MacDonald says her most frequent request is Gounod's "Ave Maria." Miss MacDonald turned over a hundred thousand to the Army Relief Society at the completion of her concert tour. Her husband, Gene Raymond, is in the American Air Force in England.

A brilliant, new recording of the famous Symphonic Suite "Scheherazade" by Rimsky-Karsakoff, has been done by the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Pierre Monteux—a delightful fantasy—fascinating themes and glowing color.

INTERNEED MISSIONARY ADDRESSES HERSHEY'S

Members of Hershey auxiliary enjoyed an unusual and timely program Monday evening when they met in the First Presbyterian church, with a large number of guests also present, to hear Miss Bertha Mercer, a missionary recently returned to this country after having been interned in Thailand for six months by the Japanese.

Worship service, in charge of Mrs. H. E. Golder, whose topic was "Promises Relating to the Troubles of Life," closed with a vocal solo by Mrs. Ross Rosenberger, "I Come to Thee" by Caro Romo, with Mrs. Paul Welsh accompanying at the piano.

Miss Mercer, who spoke, has been in charge of a girls' school in Patchaburi, Thailand, and has lived in Thailand for 30 years.

When the Japanese entered that country in December, 1941, she was interned in a concentration camp with 350 other American, British and Dutch people.

Her talk was based upon day by day happenings from December 7 to the time when she reached home. She was permitted to leave Thailand on June 29 and reached America on the "Gripsholm" August 27.

Mrs. William Margraf presided at the short business meeting which followed.

Hostesses for the evening were: Mrs. James Rhodes, Mrs. George A. Carpenter, Mrs. C. B. Chambers, Mrs. W. F. Gallaher, Mrs. C. C. Green, Miss Helen Maxwell and Mrs. W. R. Clark.

GROUP THREE MEETS WITH MRS. J. M. PYLE

Mrs. J. M. Pyle was a charming hostess Monday evening when Group Three of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Epworth church gathered at her residence on Sheridan avenue for their regular meeting. Co-hostesses on this occasion included Mrs. David McCreary, Mrs. Russell Rhodes and Florence Thompson.

Devotions were in charge of Mabel Davis, and the subject was "Prayer." An interesting program was conducted and Mrs. J. E. Rodgers gave an article on "Evacuation of the Japanese." Mrs. J. P. Renz spoke on "Planning of Christian Family Life." A returned missionary from Africa, Florence Brisbin, also was present and spoke about her work in Africa.

Mrs. Elmer Delancy conducted business, and the nominating committee was appointed: Mrs. W. D. Stitzinger, Mrs. C. B. Reynolds and Mrs. R. Bishop. Plans were discussed for the Grove City district convention to be held Friday, November 6, at the Epworth church.

December 7 is the date for the next meeting at the deaconess' home on Phillips street.

JUNIOR WOMAN'S CLUB TO SEW FOR BUNDLES

At its meeting Thursday evening at the home of Miss Luella McBride, 320 Boyles avenue, Junior Woman's club plans to continue the work begun at its last meeting, sewing for the Bundles for America.

Tigers Auxiliary

Members of the Tigers auxiliary gathered Monday evening, in the club rooms, Division street, and enjoyed a social period of card playing.

Prizes were captured by Mrs. Carl DeMatteo, Mrs. John DeSantis and Mrs. Anthony Mozzocco. The club token was captured by Mrs. Carl DeMatteo.

Later in the evening, a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. William Cubellis, Mrs. Domenick Retort, Mrs. Louis Ross and Mrs. Fred Gillett. Special guest was Mrs. Joseph Pannella.

The wedding anniversary of Mrs. John Fulemo and the birthday anniversary of Mrs. James Fulemo were honored, and each received a big sister gift.

November 16, is the date for the next meeting, hostesses being Mrs. Ben Gurneal, Mrs. John Largo, Mrs. Marshall Clotto and Mrs. Felix Mele.

Anthony Scaduto Honored

Miss Teresa Scaduto was hostess Sunday at one o'clock at a farewell dinner honoring her brother, Anthony Scaduto, who is leaving for service in the armed forces this week.

Approximately 20 guests attended, and assisting the hostess in serving the delicious dinner were Mrs. Jack Scaduto and Mrs. Joseph Scaduto.

Special guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Peluso.

HIGHLAND TEACHERS HONOR MRS. RUMBAUGH

Teachers of the primary department of Highland U. P. church held an afternoon party in honor of Mrs. J. Edward Rumbaugh, of North Mercer street, on Saturday, at the home of Mrs. Ellwood Gilbert, East Winter avenue.

Mrs. Rumbaugh, who has taught a class of girls in the primary department of Highland church for the past ten years, will leave New Castle in three weeks to make her home in Wilkinsburg, Pa., at 404 Center avenue. She was presented with a lovely farewell gift from the group of primary teachers.

Mrs. Gilbert's aids in serving were Mrs. A. R. Batten and Mrs. Jean Watkins.

Farewell Party

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Magliery were hosts to friends and relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Poa Cenname, Paul street, honoring the latter's son, Ralph Cenname, who departed for the U. S. army.

Approximately 50 guests attended and the evening was spent in playing games and dancing. Lucy Cenname was awarded a dance prize.

At a later hour the hostess served a dainty lunch, buffet style, a large victory cake centering the table and sides being Laura Cenname and Irene Wellman.

Ralph was the recipient of many useful gifts. Special guests were Italy Amabile and Martin Wellman, who also departed for army service.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. John F. Wilson of Philadelphia and Mrs. Lucy Cenname, grandmother, of Pittsburgh.

MORE BLIMPS FOR THE NAVY

MEASURE of the navy's regard for the blimp is the recent announcement that 128 more of these non-rigid ships are to be placed in service, augmenting those now in use.

The small craft employed cautiously and in small numbers at first, has more than proved itself in coast patrol and convoy protection. Because it can hover, and throttle down to a low speed, it is especially valuable in submarine patrol.

Surface boats and planes will continue to battle the submarine, but the blimp has shown itself a splendid adjunct to the others. Its effectiveness should be broadened as more of the ships become available for uses other than anti-submarine work. It is an ideal observation craft.

THAT CUP A DAY

Whether there is enough coffee for everybody's reasonable use is at the moment an irrelevant question even if anybody knows the answer.

The fact that some have in their pantries much more than a normal supply, while others are doing without is sufficient justification for rationing, regardless of the adequacy of the nation's supply.

It is unfortunate that such hoarding as has been going on was not forestalled by putting rationing suddenly into effect weeks ago; equally unfortunate that rationing is not put into effect now, instead of being announced as effective a month hence.

The situation is likely to grow worse instead of better by November 29. After that, all that has preceded will doubtless fade quickly into the past and be forgotten.

Meanwhile hope will remain green that when distribution is under control the daily allowance will turn out to be more than a cup a day. If it doesn't, well, everybody will realize that there are more important things to be concerned about than coffee.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

BIG JOB FOR MRS. AMERICA

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and at least it can be said of the present emergency that widely disseminated knowledge relative to fire prevention in the event of incendiary bombing, is making the people of our land actively fire-prevention conscious.

For the first time in history, the American housewife can systematically do first-line work in fire prevention. She can attack those piles of old magazines and newspapers; those mountainous collections of discarded sewing scraps left by the family dressmaker of a by-gone day; the corner by the chimney partitioned off for young sons' darkroom, and still full of highly inflammable photographic equipment, although young son is now serving in his country's armed forces. Only the housewife can make a systematic cleanup of such accumulation.

No one ever looks at old magazines and newspapers, although father has been saving them since 1910, on the premise that sometime he might want to "find something." Mother has saved sewing scraps because in the back of her mind for years has been the housewife's dream that maybe some day she might make a hooked rug for the upper hall. Young son's high school hobby was photography. But now—adams father is busy with Air Warden duties, mother is involved in all manner of war work, and young son has no time for hobbies.

So the American housewife can readily clean the attic, and more power to her. She can, with traditional strength and enthusiasm, cripple the red menace of fire.

"FROZEN JOBS"

In war time there must be a place for everybody, and everybody in his place. It's the only way to win. In the process a great many people—millions and millions of them—have to leave jobs they will like or stick to jobs they don't want, and it can't be helped.

So this country now reaches a stage that every nation has to reach sooner or later when it is involved in an "all out" war. People have to be put, or kept, where they are most needed. The government, operating through the draft boards, has to lay down the rules, and citizens have to obey. If a man can be most useful in the factory, on the farm, or in the job he is handling, that is his proper place.

So in the natural course of events we get the "freezing" of farm jobs, wherever the process seems essential. It comes hard in many cases. It seems to be a denial of free choice, of freedom itself—and so it is. But it is the denial of a lesser freedom for a greater freedom. And it has to be done not only on farms, where production is essential, but likewise in factories and elsewhere.

In such cases the men "frozen" in their jobs need feel no humiliation. They should be proud. They are soldiers of agriculture or industry and are doing essential war winning work for their country.

Japan has just held a six-day festival honoring its war dead. The Nipponese will have opportunity to stage many more of these celebrations as the war goes on.

A lot of people, including most of us, are still regretting the amount of scrap steel we sent to Japan before the war. We are still in favor of sending them some now—only with a different method of delivery.

You remember the fable about the fox and the grapes which he was sure were sour when he found he couldn't reach them. Judging from recent Nazi propaganda Stalingrad has turned sour, too.

A California professor says there is no reason why the average man should not live to be a hundred years old. This is especially true since the national speed limit has been reduced to thirty-five miles an hour.

If predictions of milk shortages due to lease-lend are borne out America—now headed rapidly for the horse and buggy days—may wish Henry Ford's prediction of a mechanical cow had come true.

It's funny how one thing works against another. Reducing the automobile speed limit to 35 miles an hour will save gasoline and rubber but it will certainly cut down the supply of scrap metal, too.

Since the start of the war 530 German submarines have been sunk, according to a British report. The scrap metal shortage should be becoming serious in Germany.

Danger, if any, of a shortage of doughnuts is believed to have been averted by the rationing of coffee.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DEVELOP CHILD'S INTEREST

"Your child would do well at school if only he were interested in his work there."

This statement is made by many a teacher to the parent of a school laggard. Many a parent also on his own responsibility says the same thing to the child. Both the teacher and parent, especially the teacher, should know better.

Remarks like this suggest that the lagging child is just perverse, or he would be interested. Interest is not something we can put into a child by commanding him to be interested or by shaming, lecturing or punishing him. The pity of it is that many a parent hearing that the child does not show interest in his work at school, proceeds to chastise him for the alleged delinquency, with the result, nearly always, that the child evinces still less interest and lags still more.

We parents need to put ourselves in our imagination in the child's place. Were we the laggard, would we be interested? Are we interested in anything for long that we barely can do or fail to do well every time we try? Can we even drive ourselves constantly to work as hard as possible at anything at which we can enjoy little or no success? How can you and I keep interested while failure faces us at every step? We can't. We lose heart. So does the child.

Interest And Success
Let us use more sense. Let us quit saying and thinking that the child could do better at books if he were more interested. On the contrary, let us think and say that he would be more interested in books if he could do better at them.

Of course, we can sometimes stimulate interest in what is hard to learn by tying it favorably with something else already well mastered. But for the most part we can best stimulate interest in the child as he attacks reading, spelling or arithmetic, when we set the stage so the child sees and feels he is succeeding.

In order for him to succeed, we must give him nothing harder than he can succeed at. If we have a child who lags at school, expect him not to show much interest until some way is found to help him get along better and have more success at books. More often than not, the laggard is a poor reader. Lagging in history, geography, even arithmetic, often means lagging as a reader. I have written "Home helps for poor readers," Part I, for the lower grades, Part II for higher grades and higher, to be had without cost by writing me at 235 E. 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. My "Home helps for poor spellers" may also be had in this way.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5.56. Sun rises tomorrow 7.32.

We are betting that Mr. Willie could be elected to any office he wanted in any of the foreign countries he visited.

Home stuff: "It bores me to have to listen to these after-dinner speakers," he growled. "That isn't worse than having to listen to an after-dinner grumbler the way I do when the meals don't suit you," wifey retorted.

HITLER CALLS THE DEVIL FOR HELP
Hitler called up the devil on the telephone one day.

The girl at central listened to all he had to say.
"Hello," his Hitler speaking, is old Satan home?
Just tell him it's Hitler who wants him on the phone."

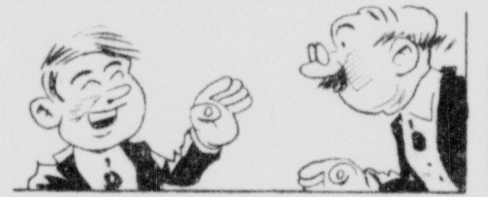

The devil said, "Howdy, Adolf," and asked Hitler, "How are you?"
"I'm running your hell on earth, so tell me what to do."
"What can I do," the devil asked.
"You don't need any help from me—you're doing mighty fine."

"Yes, I was doing fairly well until sometime ago.
When a man called Uncle Sam advised me to go slow.
He said to me, 'Dear Hitler, I don't want to be unkind.
But you've raised hell enough.
So you'd better change your mind.'"

Satan said, "Dear partner, there is not much left to tell.
For Uncle Sam will make it hotter than I can here in hell.
I have been a real old devil, but not half as mean as you.
And the minute you get down here, the job is yours to do."

"I'll be ready for your coming and I'll keep the fires all bright.
I'll get you all ready as soon as Sam begins to fight.
I know your days are numbered, and there's nothing left to tell.
Hang up the phone, put on your hat and come on down to hell."

A WORTHWHILE AIM
Woodrow Wilson, despite his sober disposition, possessed a quick wit. One day, during the course of an animated conversation, his glasses slipped down perilously near the end of his nose.

"Your glasses are almost on your mouth," his companion warned.
"That's all right," the future president answered with a smile.
"I want to see what I'm talking about."

A bore is a person who talks when you want him to listen.

Dad—Sonny, they can't tell me anything about the horrors of war. In the battle of Verdun my head was grazed by a German shell.

Sonny—There ain't much to graze on there now, is there Dad?

Fund raising campaigns are going over the top everywhere they are being held this year. Now is the time for them to go over big and all Americans should get into the work and do their best.

TEETH BY MAIL

The dentist received a request for a mail order job from a prospective patient who lives in the country. The letter read as follows: "I've heard tell of your skill as a dentist and I would like some of your teeth. As I am busy with my spring work I will give you the measurements. My mouth is three inches wide across, five-eighths of an inch threw the jaw and some hummocky on the edges. Jaw is shaped like a hoss-shoe, with the toe forward. If you want me to be more particular, I will have to come there."

How about dough? "Making love," said the handsome young cavalier, "is easy as pie. All you need is a lot of crust and some applesauce."

A medical student was talking to a surgeon about a case.

"What did you operate on that man for?" asked the student.
"Three hundred dollars," replied the surgeon.
"Yes, I know," said the student.
"I mean what did he have?"
"Three hundred and one dollars," replied the surgeon.

Safety first: Cop-Lady don't you know this is a safety zone? Lady—Surely, that's why I drove in.

Dennis was plainly worried. He scratched his head reflectively for a moment, then stooped over and commenced poking a dollar bill through a crack in a board walk.

"I say, what's up? What are you doing that for, my man?" questioned a passerby.
"Why, you see, sir," returned the Irishman without glancing up from his task, a minute ago I dropped a dime through this crack, an' now I'm putting a dollar through so's to make it worth me while to pull up the walk an' get the dime."

What's What At A Glance

Wartime Taxes Expected To Continue High
Victims Are Unaware Of Final Reckoning
Only Financial Wizard Can Figure It Out

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The fact is that the average individual won't have much idea what his wartime taxes are going to total until he begins actually paying 'em at the rates congress has been boosting them up to.

The public's been kept more or less informed as to the percentage of the various levies but it's doubtful that the prospective victims have very generally reckoned just what this assortment of numbers of cents on the dollar will amount to, worked out arithmetically and added together for deduction from the millions of different incomes that they'll be assessed against.

And, in all candor, it does require an expert to handle these calculations understandingly.

It's simple enough, of course, to figure out 6-100th, for example, of $1, multiply it by whatever number of dollars is customary in a given pay envelope and then subtract the lesser sum from the greater, thus informing the envelope's recipient what's due to be left for him after satisfying the tax collector.

There are so many different kinds of taxes, however, on so many different things and percentages of levies vary so widely, depending on incomes' differing sizes and sources, that the gross problem is sufficient to puzzle anyone but a financial wizard. Uncle Sam expects to have a huge staff of specialists to deal with assessments after January 1, when the situation will start to develop itself in earnest. Otherwise complications must quickly become literally hopeless.

"Let's Face It Later"

I think most folk anticipate a terrific strain upon their resources and maybe they're slow in facing the prospect in concrete form, from out-and-out unwillingness to recognize it until they have to.

From all indications, though, it seems likely to be worse than they imagine, despite the obvious keenness of their apprehensions.

It's to be remembered that the government aims to soak 'em not only because it needs their money, though that's a vital consideration, but also because it deliberately wants to make 'em feel poor, to prevent 'em from inflating the country by spending a nickel above what they absolutely have to.

Well, so far as making 'em feel poor's concerned, all the betting is that Uncle Samuel will prove to have accomplished it.

Prior to footing their tax bills, wage and salaried workers already have been notified that they'll have their stipends shrunk by deduction by their employers, these to be turned in, by the latter, to the federal treasury, as advance levies on the toilers' incomes. After the war, theoretically part of these subtractions are to be handed along to the wage and salaried classes, as delayed back payments. I'm a trifle suspicious, though, that the government will change its mind as to these deferred payments when the time comes. If not, the accumulation of 'em, dished out wholesale at that stage of the game, will inflate us then, which will only postpone the evil day.

One of the beauties of it all is that the coming pinch isn't due to end when the war does.

War Won't End It
The infernal thing can't be paid for, or anything like it, as it progresses.

The government could, indeed, meet its bill currently, by printing oodles of fiat money, with nothing back of it. That would be inflation of the worst sort, however. Such dough wouldn't have any genuine value. It's what Germany resorted to following the last conflict and turned out to be perfectly ruinous, as was to have been expected.

The conclusion is that, as an early escape to present conditions, everybody's income will have a fearful jolt thrown into it, shortly after January 1, when new taxes will become collectable and afterward, on into indefinite futurity, taxation will continue to be just as heavy as in wartime until the whole bills liquidated, maybe four or five generations hence—unless another war starts in the meantime.

The official limit of $25,000 on salaries, decreed by Economic Stabilizer James F. Byrnes, doesn't greatly concern ordinary folk, naturally. But the class of $5,000 and under seem scheduled to have to do considerable economizing for many years to come.

The World and the Mud Puddles

THE ROAD TO RUSSIA

The stream of supplies to the Russian front, reported Wendell Wilkie on his round-the-world tour, has not been all the Russians hoped for—and it might be added, all that America had hoped to send.

The lack has been largely due to the enormously extended supply lines over which war goods must move from the United States. Some twelve thousand miles of ocean highway through sub-infested waters separate the Atlantic seaboard from the Persian Gulf port in Iran at which material is unloaded and rushed overland to southern Russia.

The highway that leads northward across the wild, mountainous plateaus of Iran to the Caspian Sea is today one of the world's busiest traffic arteries. This tortuous route, far too precipitous for any rail line, is today crowded with caravans of American trucks speeding war goods to the Caspian for transshipment. Motor transportation, being highly flexible, maneuverable, virtually incapable of being bombed out of operation—was proven on China's Burma road today, mainly singlehanded, this strategic lifeline through the Middle East.

From the Persian Gulf its route winds through one thousand miles of mountains and gorges; on its

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

A few days ago I was initiated, as an honorary member, into a college fraternity.

With me were several other fellows, all long out of college.

We were a bit facetious about the whole thing—the whole fraternity assembled in the chapter hall—the room darkened—the chaps dressed in tuxedos at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

We had to kneel at the president's dais, two at a time. Our bones cracked as we knelt down and when we had to put our hand on the Bible, we felt over our heart, we felt pretty foolish.

Then the president read the rites to us and we perked up.

Here was idealism. Here was the resolve and the enthusiasm of youth.

Here, by candlelight, we looked around us and saw those earnest faces of young men who have a few more pep, much more expectancy.

Here was something fresh, something decent, something familiar.

Familiar? Yes, it was ourselves as we started out in life, something that we had and lost on our journey through life.

But here, in this room of ceremony and ritualism, we got it back again.

We realized that youth is right and age is wrong (and age starts whenever you begin to lose the fire of youth).

We realized that if all the dreams and all the ideals of youth could be made to come true, there wouldn't be wars, there wouldn't be failures, there wouldn't be meanness, nor envy nor knifing nor cheating.

For youth is clean. Youth is honest. Youth has vision. Youth has faith. Youth, not knowing that things can't be done, goes out and does them.

Sometimes I think that the world would be much better off if kids were the teachers and grown-ups the pupils.

Twelve Cars Of Oil Take Fire In Rail Wreck

Fireman Is Killed In Wreck Near Lancaster During Morning

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Fifteen freight cars, 12 of them loaded with oil, were derailed and burst into flame today when a Pennsylvania railroad train struck a rock on tracks of the Trenton-Harrisburg low-grade freight line east of Safe Harbor, Lancaster county. Railroad authorities in Philadelphia reported that the fireman, M. B. Frey, of Millerstown, was killed instantly when the engine turned over. Electric wires and poles were snapped and traffic on the line, used exclusively for freight, was blocked by the accident, the carrier reported. Wrecking trains were sent from Harrisburg and Lancaster and a wire train was dispatched from Thordale. According to Pennsylvania officials, the train carried 46 loaded cars and 10 empties. The second box car became ignited and the succeeding 12 cars carrying oil immediately broke into flames.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers. MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy. It helps keep the skin soft and pliable, thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin... for the tired back muscles or cramping pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend
Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight!

Poppy Day To Occur Saturday

Perry S. Gaston Post Auxiliary In Charge Of Distribution Locally

EXPECT HEAVIEST SALE IN YEARS

Poppy Day will be observed throughout the city on Saturday, November 7 with the wearing of memorial poppies in honor of the World War dead. Mrs. Roy Jones, president of the Perry S. Gaston Unit No. 343 of the American Legion Auxiliary announced today. The observance will be led by the Junior Auxiliary and girls from the Junior and Senior high schools, who will distribute poppies on the streets during the day. Thousands of these little red memorial flowers have been made by disabled World War veterans working in government hospitals and in poppy war rooms, maintained by the auxiliary, said Mrs. Roy Jones. These flowers are replicas of the poppies which grew on the World War battlefields and among which the dead and wounded fell. They are recognized throughout the English-speaking world as the memorial flower for those who fell in defense of democracy.

Plans for the local observance of Poppy Day are being completed by the Perry S. Gaston Unit No. 343 Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. John Gaston, unit poppy chairman aided by a large committee. Volunteer workers will offer poppies on the streets all day and will receive contributions for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare and relief work among the disabled veterans and dependent families of veterans. Poppies for distribution here have been ordered from the government hospitals where disabled veterans have been given employment through the winter and spring making the little flowers. They are expected to be worn more generally than ever before on Poppy Day this year.

Children's Party
Mrs. John Martin, of R. D. 5, entertained the children of her Sunday school class of East Brook Methodist church at a "halloween party" Saturday afternoon.

New York Holds Election Interest

Expect 4,000,000 To Cast Ballots During Day In Empire State

DEWEY APPEARS HEADED FOR WIN

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The national political spotlight was drawn like a magnet toward New York today as voters throughout the state went to the polls to determine whether Thomas E. Dewey, Republican, or John J. Bennett, Democrat, will be the next governor.

If Dewey wins, as is generally predicted by informed observers, he will be the first Republican governor in New York State in twenty years.

It was estimated that approximately 4,000,000 of the state's 5,167,272 registered voters will have cast their ballots between the opening of the polls at 6 o'clock this morning and 7 o'clock this evening when the polls close.

"Dewey the winner by a 600,000 plurality" was the final prediction of Herbert Brownell, Jr., Republican campaign manager.

James A. Farley, Democratic state chairman and sponsor of Bennett, refrained from making a last-minute prediction. But the Democratic campaign manager, Vincent Dailey, insisted Bennett would win by a plurality of 150,000.

Of the two camps, the Republican headquarters exuded the most confidence.

Dewey himself made no guess as to the outcome, but he did express the "firm conviction" that he would win.

Governor Bricker Seeks Third Term

Expect 1,750,000 Voters In Ohio Will Go To Polls To Vote Today

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 3.—Ohio's race for governor between Republican John W. Bricker, seeking his third consecutive term and Democrat John McSweeney, former congressman, held the spotlight today as only an estimated 1,750,000 of the state's 4,000,000 eligible voters went to the polls.

Both parties predict victory—the Republicans by 250,000 votes, and the Democrats by 100,000. Most political observers, however, gave Bricker the nod by 75,000 votes or more.

Next to the gubernatorial race, the greatest state-wide interest was in the fight for the single congressional seat remaining to Ohio under the 1940 census re-apportionment. Two present incumbents, Democrat Stephen M. Young and Republican George H. Bender, are contesting for that one seat in what promises to be the closest race on the entire ballot—the only one in which an incumbent is certain to lose.

last lap it plunges, within twenty miles, from a height of twelve thousand feet, to below sea level. It is a punishing journey, but motor transportation is proving the justice of the military experts' view that in war we could survive without railroads, but never without roads and motor transport. Russia's "Burma Road" similar in length and terrain to China's, now carries more tons per month than did China's Burma Road at the very peak of its operation.

If ocean life-lines can be maintained, and strategic land routes held, the volume of war supplies being sped across the one thousand-mile breadth of Iran will continue to rise steadily. Few are the military experts who would not agree that our supply lines will have the last word in this war.

Despite Staggering Setbacks Morale Of Soviet Russia Is 'Astonishingly High', Says Brown

(Editor's Note: Despite staggering setbacks and the certainty of further reverses before this winter is over, the morale of Soviet Russia remains "astonishingly high", James E. Brown, Moscow correspondent of International News Service, writes in the second article of his series "Why Russia Can't Be Beaten.")

By JAMES E. BROWN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Russia today faces the hardest winter since 1919 united and unafraid. She is more confident of ultimate victory today than she was one year ago.

This seeming contradiction will be understandable to those who were in London during the worst days of the blitz when the English reacted in much the same way.

Morale in the Soviet Union is good; astonishingly good, considering their terrible sufferings. I can honestly say that during the past year in Moscow I have heard no whisperings of defeatism.

Much To Endure

And yet here's what they're enduring: Food is short, so short that Wendell Willkie was speaking accurately when he said in a press conference at Moscow that there are possibilities of famine. Foreign correspondents, who eat much better than the average Russian, are given lumps of candy to put in their glasses of tea because there is no sugar.

New clothing is practically nonexistent. Everything goes to the army, and people have to get along with what they had before the war began. The same is true of shoes and stockings. Shoemakers are in great demand to repair old shoes.

One shortage of consumers' goods has led not unnaturally to a system of barter; people would rather be paid in articles of clothing or food than in cash. This leads to strange exchanges.

Foreign correspondents, for example, are allowed to buy three bottles of vodka a week. A Russian friend of mine told me his shoemaker had agreed to repair his shoes for one bottle of vodka; he was swamped with work and would not repair the shoes under any other terms. Unfortunately my friend had no vodka and could not buy any. So I gave him a bottle, and he was able to get his shoes repaired.

Barter Is Illegal

The above transaction, like all barter transactions, is illegal, but the government has not taken any drastic measures to curb the practice. Soap and tooth-paste are also extremely scarce. I brought a year's supply of soap from England with me, and occasionally I would give a bar to some friend. It was always gratefully received.

Loss of the Donetz coal basin has resulted in an acute shortage of fuel. The problem is being met in a typical Soviet way. Moscow, Leningrad, Gorki and other cities have sent thousands of old men, women and boys and girls out in the forests to cut wood and stack it so that when the snow falls they can haul it in on sleds. But this wood is for war factories.

People in Russia are going to be cold this winter. It is probable that one house in every block will get some kind of heating and residents of neighboring houses will come here to sleep. But when the temperature reaches 40 below zero there is bound to be a great deal of suffering.

The Metropole hotel, where the correspondents in Moscow live, was so cold last winter that newspapermen would go in their bath-rooms and turn on the hot water in order to get enough heat to work.

Medical Supplies Scarce

Medical supplies are also scarce. Much is being sent from America, but the conveyance route to Murnansk and Archangel is one of the worst in the world, and not all that is sent arrives. I spent a month in a Soviet hospital and noticed a great deal of the equipment was American.

A nurse came running into my room one day in great excitement with a new hot water bottle and asked me to read what was written on it to her. I think she expected to hear some fraternal war greetings and looked puzzled and disappointed when I told her the only thing written on the bottle was American Rubber Company.

Everybody in Russia knows what this winter is going to be like. Many of them remember the terrible years after the last war. And that knowledge makes it worse for them. But there is no whining or complaining, no thought of anything except fighting the war to the bitter end.

Real Total War

Total war is an expression that has been used so often and so glibly that it has lost much of its original meaning, but I have been in every war area in the world except the Pacific, and Russia is the only place I have visited that understands the true meaning of the expression.

Everything in the Soviet Union, literally everything, is directed toward fighting the war.

There isn't an unnecessary activity in Russia today, except, perhaps, the ballet, and it can be argued that this is so much a part of the national life that it is a necessity.

Stalin, at any rate, has given orders that it is to be continued, and the ballet today is just as beautiful and has just as lavish costuming and scenery as it did when I was in Russia in 1937.

No Capitulation

When I boarded an airplane in Moscow to come home I felt as though I was deserting my friends. There are some terrible days ahead, but with all their hardships the Russians will never know the ultimate humiliation of defeat. The disgrace of France is a very real thing to the Soviets; capitulation is never discussed. The most admired of the Soviet guerrillas, much is written about them, and it is a kind of fighting the Russians understand.

There are also kinds of fighting they do not understand. They were dismayed, for example, at the surrender of Tobruk, but I found when I was in Cairo that the Soviet bewilderment was shared by a good many other people there also.

Hardships and privations listed in this article fall mainly on civilians, and the army is much better off. All available food and clothing goes to the soldiers; the best meal I had in Russia was a dinner at a fighter pilot's camp. Front-line soldiers, naturally, worry about their relatives in the rear because they know they are not eating as well as they are.

Mrs. Roosevelt Makes Visit To London Nursery

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today visited a nursery of the women's voluntary service where three-year-old Terry Anthony, an evacuee from London, sang a nursery rhyme for her.

The visit to the nursery was made by Mrs. Roosevelt following a tour of an American paratroop unit base in England yesterday.

Troops under command of Lieut. Col. Edson Raff of New York City put on a demonstration for the American first lady, showing her how they carried out jumps from a dummy wooden fuselage.

The trip to the paratroop base was made after the wife of the president had spent an evening with Queen Mother Mary. The mother of King George VI gave to Mrs. Roosevelt two "action" pictures of herself in which the Queen Mother is seen saving wood and operating a two-handed saw with the aid of a soldier. The pictures are to be presented to President Roosevelt.

Mrs. John A. Earl and Mrs. Richard Jones of West Washington street extension, Mrs. William Logan of Riverside avenue and Mrs. Rachel Bostard of Warren, O., have returned from Cincinnati from a week's visit in Cincinnati, O., with Mr. and Mrs. John Earl. Mrs. Bostard and Johnny Earl returned to New Castle with the party and are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Earl.

ESCAPE ARMY PRISON
(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Three soldiers escaped this morning from an army prison enclosure in Philadelphia, local military authorities announced, police have joined the Army in searching for the fugitives. No further details were revealed.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanna of Neshannock avenue that they can communicate with their son, Private Gerald K. Hanna, through the postmaster, San Francisco.

Private First Class Harold R. Nelson, who is stationed at Portsmouth, Va., is spending a three-day furlough with his wife, Mrs. Ruth I. Nelson, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanna, all of Neshannock avenue.

Corporal Louis Jay Koch, formerly of 427 Galbreath avenue, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant at Camp Atterbury, Indiana.

Private John Kunda, who is stationed at Fort Eustis, Va., visited Sunday at his home, R. D. 2, Youngstown road.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Griev, of 21 Smithfield street, have received word that their son, Private John Griev, who enlisted in the air corps, is taking up electrical training in which he will specialize at the school there. He was formerly engaged in electrical work at an airplane factory in Middletown, near Harrisburg.

Lt. David Galasso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo Galasso, South Jefferson street, has concluded a week's visit here with his parents, and has returned to continue his military studies at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Lt. Galasso has just completed his studies at the Graduate School of Engineering, at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

James Howard Kimmel, stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., has been made a corporal and is now assistant to the chaplain. He has been assigned to the Trains Headquarters company, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. Kimmel, R. D. 5.

Staff Sgt. George Boulden, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Boulden of 1061 Adams street, has arrived here for a week's visit from California where he has been temporarily located. Staff Sgt. Boulden has just completed a three-year period of service in the Panama Canal Zone.

Mrs. E. W. Park of this city has received word that her son, William M. Magree, petty officer, third class, in the U. S. navy, stating that he is stationed at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown of Luton street, have received a letter from their son, Private First Class Russell Brown, who is with the United States marines on Guadalcanal Island. The letter was written October 17, just four days after Russell's 19th birthday when the big battle started on Guadalcanal. Russell writes his parents that the boys feel that they can "lick the Japs." He also says that "Mal Gen. Vandergift was 'absolutely right' when he said that with bold and brave men and the help of God, we will win."

First Lieut. Elmer W. Reiber, U. S. Army Ordnance, who was recently transferred from Aberdeen, Md., to Camp Sutton, N. C., will spend a short furlough at his home here this week. When he returns to North Carolina, he will be accompanied by Mrs. Reiber.

American Aircraft Blasts At Japanese Ships In Buin-Faisi

By PAT ROBINSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA.

Nov. 3.—Near misses and possible hits were registered Monday by American Flying Fortresses and medium bombers in early morning attacks against Japanese warships and transports in the Buin-Faisi area of the northern Solomon Islands.

Added to the modest claims contained in American air force communiqués was the report of pilots who flew over the Buin-Faisi area today. They saw a transport beached, one destroyer completely awash, and another destroyer half submerged.

(Editor's note: A communiqué from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia, received in New York last night, said that American bombers sank or damaged seven Japanese vessels in a Sunday morning raid on the Buin-Faisi area. It was possible that the ships mentioned in the dispatch from Pat Robinson, might have been included in General MacArthur's communiqué.)

Report Of Action

In the hours preceding and immediately following dawn, the hard-hitting Fortresses and mediums accounted for the following:

Three near misses on an unidentified ship by Maj. John Rouse of Rochester, N. Y.

One possible hit on a destroyer by Capt. Jerome Tarter of Kentucky. One extremely near miss with a huge bomb by Lieut. Glen Lewis of West Ogden, Utah.

One direct hit on a transport off Faisi by Capt. Jay Rousek of Muskogee, Okla.

One near-miss on a destroyer by Capt. Dick Ezzard of Winter Garden, Fla.

Meanwhile, Maj. Don Hall of Corpus Christi, Tex.; Capt. Glen Clark of Spokane, Wash.; Lieut. Billy Langley of Boise, Idaho, and Bill Ford of Washington were jumped by 20 Japanese Zeros shortly after medium bombers had raided the airbase and surrounding area at Lae, important enemy base in New Guinea.

Plane Riddled

Ford may have got one of the Zeros. His plane was well riddled but he brought it home without a casualty.

While this fight was raging, pursues Lieutenant Bill Day of Red Lion, Pa.; Dick Dennis of East Cleveland, O., and Ross Baker of Alexandria, La., came along to help their pal.

"The sky seemed full of Zeros," said Day. "From 4,000 to 10,000 feet we were swirling all over the sky, in and out of clouds. Sometimes I was on a Zero's tail, sometimes I'd have a flock on mine."

"I know I got one because I saw him spin down smoking after seeing my bullets go into him as we passed each other not over 10 yards apart."

Boys On Lake Erie Get Water By Truck

Coast Guard Station Has No
Pipe Line; Priest Appeals
To President For Aid

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 3.—The old saying, "Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink," might well apply to the coast guardsmen stationed here on the banks of Lake Erie.

The station is approximately a mile from the nearest fresh water pumping station and pipe line, and all efforts to have the line extended have been fruitless so far.

The coast guardsmen, according to a telegram from Rev. Timothy Sullivan, local Catholic pastor, to President Roosevelt, have to truck in all fresh water for drinking, cooking and bathing purposes.

The priest said he had asked the President to intervene and help the coast guardsmen if possible.

Request Reports On Petrillo Ban

Senator Clark's Bill To Pave
Way For Showdown Of Government Attitude Toward Ban

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The Clark bill making the ban of President James C. Petrillo of the American Federation of Musicians on recording a violation of the anti-trust law was sent on Monday to government agencies for a report.

Sen. D. Worth Clark (D) Ida., author of the bill, said that the justice department, federal communications commission, war and navy departments and office of war information had been asked to submit reports.

The request for reports is designed to pave the way for a showdown of the administration attitude on the ban which, Clark asserts, jeopardizes the life of scores of small radio stations.

While the justice department launched an anti-trust suit, which was thrown out of court, the administration has not yet indicated that it would back amendment of the anti-trust law to overcome the ban.

There have been no recordings made since Aug. 1 as a result of the ban," said Clark. "Many radio stations and the operators of coin-operated music machines have had libraries of recordings, which they continue to use. But the records will wear out and many of the songs will become old. The pinch will begin to be felt in the near future."

President Asks For New, Broad Powers

Special Message To Congress
Asks Laws To Facilitate Movement Of Men,
Material

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt on Monday asked congress to grant him broad discretionary powers to suspend tariff or other laws which hamper the free movement of men, materials or information into or out of the United States.

In a special message to congress, the president pointed out that there still exist obstacles which prevent the free flow of men and materials needed to prosecute the war.

In asking for legislation granting him the new powers, the president said that the discretionary authority vested in him would be used to remove for the duration of the war two main classes of obstacles:

"1. Those directly affecting the movement to and from the customs territory of the United States of material information and persons needed for the war effort."

"2. Those which impose limitations on the procurement, acquisition or use of non-American articles or the transportation of supplies in non-American bottoms."

President Roosevelt pointed out that he already had exercised powers granted him under the first war powers act to extend government procurement activities and otherwise break down peacetime legal restrictions on the flow of commerce.

"We must further take advantage of possibilities of procurement from every available source, foreign or domestic," the president declared. "Speed and volume of war output become more than ever before in our history the primary conditions of victory."

The president emphasized that the discretionary powers granted him should remain in force only for the duration of the national emergency.

Rats Destroy,
Spread Disease

Not Necessary To Come In Contact With Rats To Become Ill

"Rats cause considerable trouble. They eat and destroy millions of dollars worth of food every year, are dirty, create unsanitary conditions and are a menace to health," said Dr. W. A. Womer, city health officer in his bulletin which was issued today at the municipal health office.

"Some diseases are spread by rats. The plague is one of them. If we could get rid of rats we would not need to worry so much about an epidemic of plague. Rat bite fever is a dangerous and loathsome disease," he said.

"You do not need to come in contact with rats to get these diseases. They are spread by the fleas which live on the rats. The fleas carry the disease but if they did not have rats to feed on this would cause no trouble."

"It is a very hard and costly job to get rid of rats in a ship or a city. They are the smartest of animals. Mostly in a rat campaign, a lot of rats are killed. Those which are left have a good time with more to eat and not so much competition. Maybe, sometime, New Castle will get up the nerve to tackle the job and clean them out."

COUNTY FOREST FIRE
CHIEFS TO BE NAMED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—The State Defense Council has asked all county councils to act jointly with the district forester in their area in appointing county chiefs to organize the new forest fire fighters service in Pennsylvania.

The new service, George H. Wirt, state chief, announced will be a part of the civilian defense protective forces of the state.

Instead of the 12,000 to 15,000 volunteers originally announced, it was estimated that as many as 20,000 volunteer workers may be needed in the P. F. F. S.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—During his four years of tenure, Gov. Arthur H. James has collected a deskful of mementos from well-wishers. When he took office in January 1939, the huge desk that dominates the governor's office was bare of everything except a lamp, desk-set, inter-office telephone and a ship's clock. Now the desk is littered with a 250-piece religious cross sent him when he married in October 1941; a replica of Independence Hall in Philadelphia; four miniatures of the picturesque "plain people" of Lancaster county; a piece of the original wooden radio tower of KDKA, pioneer station; a hand-carved horse donated by an old man to whom the governor gave a job, and an old cigar box containing an undisciplined gift.

In addition, the desk is jammed with copies of Pennsylvania laws, correspondence and government reports.

Rep. J. William Ditter of Montgomery county has been named to a congressional committee that will investigate expenditures by candidates for congress. The committee, which keeps a close watch on campaign expenditures, is similar to the U. S. senate committee which was active in Pennsylvania during the 1938 election. Ditter is chairman of the Republican campaign committee.

Heard at the capitol: Speaker of the House Elmer Ellender will leave the Temple University hospital at the end of the week. Employe shortages in some departments are beginning to slow down clerical functions. The State Defense Council has heard rumors that the federal government may assume control of its activities. Governor James is telling friends that he intends to go back to his home town of Plymouth when his term ends and practice law. The department of internal affairs is troubled with an increasing number of unscrupulous dealers who are "short-weighting" customers. Deputy Secretary of State Gene Smith is being groomed for district attorney of Lehigh county.

Here's How I Licked
Wartime Constipation!

It was easy after I was told it's often due to lack of "bulk"

"Seems like I was always 'doing' up on account of constipation. That sort of stuff gets a fellow down. Then a friend pointed out that these war days were upsetting our whole way of living. Particularly in how we eat. Said I ought to take care my meals were properly balanced—and make sure I got plenty of 'bulk.' Because lack of 'bulk' is one of the common causes of wartime constipation. Those medicinal laxatives gave me only temporary relief; they didn't get at the cause."

"But, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really fixed me up. It corrects this kind of constipation by supplying 'bulk.' And it tastes swell, too. Just eat it regularly and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek."

"Bicycle For Two" Used By Couple On Trip To Canada

Tra-la-la! The "Bicycle Built For Two" years ago becomes a modern realization, as Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pollard of 15 Walter street, pedal their way back home on a tandem after covering better than 300 miles by wheel.

The couple left here by train and went as far as Erie, and from there they bicycled, taking route five and wended their way to Van Buren where they stopped for a time. From there they continued on to Canada. They stopped in Buffalo and made the return jaunt via route 20.

The tandem duo relate that every place they stopped they were surrounded by people, who asked endless questions.

They related to the news reporter they were treated courteously everywhere they went, but especially hospitable were the folks in Canada and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollard traveled in style, wearing matched corduroy suits, and can sincerely say they enjoyed the trip both going and coming. They averaged 20 miles per hour going to Canada and due to the strong winds, estimate their speed about 15 miles on their return to New Castle. They carried with them two large saddle bags and another travel leather bag. The tandem they used was an original model shipped from England. The couple left here on a Sunday and returned the following Friday.

"BABIES" COST $15 FINE IN BLACKOUT

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 3.—Louis Rubin's "babies" cost him a $15 fine and a policeman's wrath in a recent surprise blackout test in New Jersey.

Rubin, unable to get home after the sirens sounded, asked a motorcycle policeman to drive to his home and turn out the kitchen light that he had lit for his "babies."

The policeman arrested Rubin on blackout violation charges when he discovered that the "babies" were Pekinese puppies.

Old Silk, Nylon To Be Collected

Depots To Be Set Up In Retail Stores November 16
To Receive Old
Stockings

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—Hosiery collection depots will be set up in retail stores on Nov. 16 to collect old silk and nylon stockings, the state salvage committee announced Monday. The depots will be in charge of local defense officials.

"Silk can be used for the manufacture of powder bags because it burns completely and leaves no hot embers in guns," explained Colley S. Baker, executive secretary of the state committee. He pointed out that guns can thus be recharged with greater speed.

"Nylon," he said, "is greatly needed in the manufacture of other important war materials."

The depots should be permanent, he said.

Saved 20% with INSULATION

Saved 21% with STORM WINDOWS and DOORS

Saved 20% with WEATHERSTRIPPING

One home in this district, previously weatherstripped, has since been insulated all around. Its owners found that the record of four years' heating costs showed a reduction in heating bills of approximately 20%. Now storm windows and doors are being installed.

Another home owner installed storm sash last year and has saved about 21% on his heating bills—besides eliminating outside noise and dirt to a great extent.

Still another home, weatherstripped for 14 years, has shown a reduction in fuel bills of more than 20%. Other results: No drafts, fewer colds, more even temperatures throughout.

THREE BILLIONS ARE SAVED BY CONGRESS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3—Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D. Tenn.), told the senate on Monday that the government will save $2,000,000,000 in renegotiation and scaling down of war contracts by next January 1.
This, in addition to $1,313,000,000 saved through reduction in budget appropriation recommendations, will bring total savings of the congress this year to over $3,000,000,000, he said.

Says Japs Lost Heavily In Fight On August 9

(International News Service)
PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 3.—The Japs attempted to repeat their naval performance off Savo Island in Solomon waters where three U.S. cruisers were sunk August 9—but when the battle was done, it was revealed today, Tokyo's navy was shy at least one heavy cruiser and four destroyers which were sunk and probably lost three other cruisers.
The tables were reversed off Savo Island, northwest of Guadalcanal, about midnight October 11 in a second major sea engagement which lasted 40 minutes.
Details of the battle was related by Captain Ernest G. Small, of New Haven, Conn., skipper of a U.S. cruiser.
The engagement started at 11:40 p.m., and the American vessels involved held the upper hand throughout the battle.

Trapped Trying To Rescue Her Brother

Mt. Carmel Woman Injured In Second Mine Cave-In, After Brother Buried Alive

(International News Service)
MT. CARMEL, Pa., Nov. 3.—Mary Kogut was in a serious condition in a hospital today after being trapped under a second mine cave-in while she worked frantically in a fruitless attempt to save her brother, Joseph, 31, who was buried alive in the first slide.
Kogut and his brother-in-law, Peter Ibanez, were working a small mine which they jointly owned when Joseph was trapped beneath a pile of rocks. Peter managed to leap free and ran for help, bringing Mary to the scene.
The pair could hear the moans of the buried man and dug desperately to get him. Just as his hand came into view, however, the second cave-in occurred, crushing Kogut and trapping the two would-be rescuers.
Neighbors heard Ibanez's shouts for help and rushed to aid them. Miss Kogut suffered severe back injuries. Ibanez was apparently unhurt.

Five Ousted From Beaver Jail Force

(Special To The News)
BEAVER, Nov. 3.—Negligence, incompetency and want of cooperation were the charges made by the Beaver county prison board on Monday, against five wardens and deputy wardens of the county jail here. The board cited the recent and earlier escapes from the jail. The wardens were requested to resign before January 1.

County Detective Laverne C. Craven of New Brighton was named warden, and his wife, Caroline W. Craven, was chosen matron. They will assume their new duties at once.

GROVE CITY CHURCH NOW REDUCING DEBT

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Nov. 3.—Started Sunday with initial gifts totaling $8,000, the campaign of the First Presbyterian church congregation for $31,500 to reduce the building debt is progressing better than was expected, according to Chairman M. C. Pollock. In the opening list of donors were four non-members, and Dr. Stephen Lewis, who spent his professional life as a medical missionary in China, and is now in retirement here.
If the goal is reached, the church debt will be reduced under $100,000. The church was built at a cost of $425,000, and was dedicated in 1926.

Sentinels Meet Friday Evening

Members of the Mahoningtown Sentinels, connected with Civilian Defense, will meet on Friday evening, at 8, in St. Margaret's Hall, North Liberty street.
There will be a final checkup, to secure a report prior to the spaghetti dinner to be given under the auspices of the Sentinels, on Tuesday, November 10, at St. Margaret's Hall.
The committee on the matter of securing the location of a Post for Air Raid Wardens, in Mahoningtown, will make a report at this time, and action will be taken.

PRESBYTERIANS HOSTS TO C. E. CONVENTION

At the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, on Thursday, the Lawrence County Christian Endeavor Union will have its fall convention. The convention will open with a three-course dinner, in the evening, at 6:15 o'clock, in the dining room of the church.
Rev. W. W. McKinney, state pastor, from Ambridge, and Dr. J. Wilson Byers, state president of Christian Endeavor societies, from Aliquippa, will be the leaders of the convention. The Christian Endeavor Alumnae is expected to attend this occasion.
One of the gospel teams from Westminster college will be in charge of the evening program.

FRIENDS HONOR SOLDIER WITH PARTY

Private Andy Domenick of Port Bragg, N. C., has returned, after a leave of three days visiting with his father, Tony Domenick and family of 232 South Liberty street.
Saturday evening at his home a group of friends gathered and gave a party in his honor.
Music was furnished by Nick Castaldi.
Splendid refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Castaldi, the honored guest's aunt, and Eva Moran.
The honored guest received many gifts from his friends.
Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Mojoni and daughter and husband of Bessemer.

NOW IN PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Mrs. Rainey, of North Liberty street, has received word from her husband, Alderman T. C. Tons Of Buried
Rails In Cities

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—There are approximately 20,000 tons of abandoned street railway tracks which can be salvaged for the nation's iron and steel mills, much of it buried under streets and highways, state W. P. A. administrator Richard Irvin disclosed today.

Irvin said that about 3,000 tons of rails already have been removed from municipalities by 16 W. P. A. projects. The W. P. A. he said, is planning the removal of other rails under arrangements with the war production board.

Police On Lookout
For Thieves With
Auto Arsenal

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—Police of eight states today kept a close watch on the highways in an effort to apprehend the thieves who stole an automobile loaded with a small arsenal of arms, ammunition and tear gas equipment from Pittsburgh's North Side.

The automobile, property of W. F. Borchers, a salesman for the Federal laboratories, Inc., contained a revolver with 20 rounds of ammunition, eight tear gas grenades, eight tear gas projectors, two gas "bills" and shells, 25 rounds of ammunition for a .45 calibre sub-machine gun, one 25 MM team gas projector, two sets of handcuffs and a Reiber sound detector and recorder valued at $750.

The salesman, reporting the theft to police last night, said he feared the arms and ammunition might have fallen into improper hands.
Borchers added that usually he carries sample machine guns in his car for demonstration purposes but yesterday, fortunately, had left these at home.

Americans Give Huge Sums To Relief Funds, Charity, Despite War

By JANE COCHRAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The ever-present philanthropy of the American people mounts into the hundreds of millions even in these wartime days of soaring income taxes and ceiling incomes.

In one year, the American public is asked to contribute the startling sum of more than $147,000,000—and does pretty well about living up to expectations.

The dimes, dollars and hundred dollar bills that the men and women of America donate to helping others are limited to no one group, no one country, and no one cause.

But war, and its resultant miseries, swallows up the biggest hunk of the charity gifts and contributions—over $140,000,000 is sought this year to aid war sufferers, provide recreation and comforts for service men, and care for war-created emergencies.

By far the most expansive program is carried on by the American Red Cross and the American public backed this program up this year with a dollars and cents contribution of $66,086,550.67.

The following are goals—not the amount collected but the amount sought—for the year by the larger relief organizations:

United Service Organizations, Inc. $32,000,000
Greek War Relief Association, Inc. $12,000,000
British War Relief Society, Inc. $7,000,000
United China Relief, Inc. $7,000,000
Russian War Relief, Inc. $6,000,000
United Seamen Service $6,000,000
Greater New York Fund $5,000,000
Queen Wilhelmina Fund (Dutch) $500,000
Maple Leaf Fund (Canadian) $414,000

Almost every community in the United States has its own community chest drive, to care for local hospitals, charities and community welfare projects. No total figures on these community chest drive collections are available but they represent an appreciable sum.

Contributions actually received this year by other organizations swell the total. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis received $3,908,310; the Coordinating Council of French Relief societies, Inc. was given $538,548 in goods and money in the last 15 months; the United Jewish Appeal, American Friends of Norway, Bundles for Belgians, Fighting French Relief, etc.

Soaring income taxes may cut into the charitable contributions but the $25,000 income ceiling is likely to increase the size of many individual contributions. It's possible under the income ceiling, for a many-fingered salary man to be charitable and not have it cost him a cent. "Customary" charity contributions are to be deducted before the $25,000 maximum income figure is reached.

"Abstemiously," "facetiously," and "arseniously" are three words in the English language which contain all the vowels in their proper order.

Senator Proposes Manpower Program

Senator Thomas Seeks To Emphasize Local Responsibility In Basic Ideas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—An agreement between management, labor and industry on basic principles to govern the development of the manpower program of the nation was proposed Monday by Senator Elbert Thomas (D) Utah, chairman of the Senate labor committee.

He proposed these basic principles:

1. Workers' equity in social security, such as various benefits, including seniority rights and unemployment benefits, shall be preserved if workers go from one state to another.
2. Apprentices needed for war industries shall be paid at fair, uniform rates.
3. Equality of pay for men and women shall be ordered.
4. No discrimination as to race and creed shall be allowed in war industries.

"The manpower question is not yet ready for legislative action," said Thomas. "If a set of basic principles can be agreed upon voluntarily, it will not be difficult to provide whatever legislation is needed to implement it."

"Of course the idea won't satisfy those who want a czar. But it will be more workable. We don't want any hard and fast rules. Our industry is too complex, our management customs are too different, for that."

Thomas said that the program would emphasize local responsibility in solving manpower problems.

Boogie Woogie Peps Up Cadets Drill Routine

Playing boogie woogie during "breaks" or rest periods and some of the drills, makes the men complete their day's training much more refreshed, Major Lewis Taylor, originator of the idea at Randolph Field, reports.

Anthracite Miners Work Six-Day Week

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—Anthracite miners are now working six days a week in an effort to increase coal production for war needs, the state anthracite committee disclosed Monday.

The increase in the work week from five to six days will make possible the production of an additional 240,272 tons this week, the committee estimated.

The committee therefore increased the production quota this week for the anthracite industry from 1,201,360 tons to 1,441,632 tons. The earlier quota had been in force for many weeks.

FBI AGENTS TRAIL FIVE DESPERADOES

"Terrible Touhy" And "Owl" Banghart Among Escaped Abductors

Director John Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation has announced that Roger "Terrible" Touhy, Basil "The Owl" Banghart, and five other long-term convicts who escaped from the Stateville Penitentiary, at Joliet, Ill., on October 9, 1942, are being sought by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in a nationwide manhunt.

The fleeing felons, who are described by Mr. Hoover as the most vicious and dangerous group at liberty in nearly a decade, are fugitives from federal justice for violating the Selective Service Act in that they failed to register. Mr. Hoover stated the 53 FBI field offices in continental United States are on the alert for the seven desperadoes. Not since the days of John Dillinger, "Baby Face" Nelson, Alvin Karpis and the Barker-Karpis gang over a half dozen years ago has the FBI entered such an intensive fugitive roundup.

In the prison break one penitentiary guard was shot and wounded and another was severely beaten. Touhy led the escape, and armed with a scissor slashed a prison garbage truck driver, commandeered the truck and drove across the prison yard. He then disrupted the prison communications system by cutting telephone wires.

Banghart, armed with a gun, accompanied by the other convicts, took a ladder which they had obtained from the mechanical shop, then drove the commandeered truck to the northwest corner of the prison where several of the convicts opened fire on a tower guard. The guard was disabled but not seriously injured.

Escape In Prison Car

Thereafter the felons scaled the wall with the aid of the ladder they had obtained, using a guard as a shield, and stopped momentarily to take two high-powered rifles and a pistol from the injured guard. One of the convicts then slid down the outer side of the wall with the use of a rope and managed to open the outside tower stairway door allowing the other convicts to escape. All of them made their getaway in a prison guard's car which was later found abandoned on the outskirts of Chicago.

Touhy and Banghart, members of a notorious gang of killers, kidnapers and bootleg operators who had ruled the Chicago northwest side underworld for years were serving 99-year sentences for the kidnaping and torture of John "Jake the Barber" Factor on July 1, 1932. Roger Touhy, 44, the leader of the gang, engineered the Factor kidnaping in co-operation with his trusted machine-gunning associate Banghart, who is 42 years old.

The other five fugitives are Edward Darlak, 32, sentenced October 14, 1935, to serve concurrent sentences of 199 years for murder and one year for robbery; St. Clair McInerney, 30, serving a life sentence at Joliet as an habitual criminal, having been returned to Joliet on March 9, 1937, for violation of parole from a previous one year of life sentence.

Mathew Nelson, 40, received at Joliet on November 21, 1939, for robbery and serving a sentence of one year to life as an habitual criminal; William Stewart, 43, serving concurrent terms of one to twenty years and twenty years for robbery; and James O'Connor, 35, who was received on a sentence of one year to life at Joliet, February 2, 1928, on a charge of robbery and assault to kill. O'Connor had made two successful escapes previously from the Stateville Penitentiary, one in 1932, and the other in 1936.

AXIS SOLDIERS APPROACH CAIRO—UNDER GUARD

Months ago Field Marshal Erwin Rommel promised his Axis forces in North Africa that they soon would push right through to the Suez canal. Hundreds of them are getting there now, but as the vanquished, not the victors. A column of German and Italian soldiers captured in the British Eighth Army's offensive is pictured above marching to the rear of the Allied lines under guard.

HIS TANK KNOCKED OUT, NAZI CRIES "KAMERAD!"

As the British Eighth Army smashes ahead through German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's desert defenses, the British continue to bag an increasing number of German and Italian prisoners. Photograph shows the survivor of a knocked-out German tank surrendering to British infantry.

Flapjacks—Guadalcanal Style

Included in the booty captured by U. S. Marines on Guadalcanal was a Jap army safe. After a few minor adjustments the safe was converted into a stove. The smooth side of the improvised stove made an excellent griddle for making flapjacks for hungry Leathernecks. On the March in New Guinea

Australian troops, wearing camouflage on their helmets, trudge along through a swampy part of the New Guinea jungle near Milne Bay. The Japs attempted to take this eastern section of New Guinea as part of the drive on Port Moresby, but when they arrived the Aussie forces were waiting for them. After a week of fighting, Hirohito's troops were wiped out.

Marine Tells of Jap Treachery

This U. S. Marine, Pvt. Raymond Paul Nunley, of Lancaster, O., was wounded in the Solomons. From his cot at a naval hospital in the south Pacific area he told a graphic story of Jap treachery. A Jap officer showed a flag of truce, said his men wanted to surrender. Thirty marines set out to bring them in, traveled five miles in a tank lighter, and as they landed were mowed down by machine guns. Only two of the thirty escaped with their lives.

Keep 'em Iced—Keep 'em Flying

Physical Training In Schools Is Discussed

Presidents and representatives of Lawrence county Federation of Women's clubs met with Frank L. Burton, Superintendent of city schools, and John C. Syling, Superintendent of county schools, in Supt. Burton's office Monday afternoon, to discuss a motion picture recently adopted by the Federation calling on the city and county superintendents of schools to set up at an early date necessary machinery to give all boys and girls in junior and senior high schools proper physical instruction under a competent director.

Acting chairman for the Federation in the absence of Mrs. I. Miller Henley, president, was Mrs. S. DeGraft Pearson, who explained the reason behind the motion, the feeling of many mothers among club women that the 13 weeks of training given by the army is not enough to condition boys 18 years of age to the rigors of army life and that many girls who enter such fields as nurses training are not in the proper physical condition for such work.

During the discussion as to what is being done and what could be done in the schools for proper physical conditioning of both boys and girls the following points were made:

That the schools are looking ahead to a certain extent to the time when high school seniors will enter the army in certain phases of boys' physical training, but that the chief deterrents to expanding work in physical conditioning are the problems of getting competent instructors and lack of equipment.

The term "physical conditioning" was explained by Miss Margaret

Fischer, Girls' Athletic Director at Senior High School, also present as Federation Junior representative, as the term applied to a more formal, somewhat more strenuous program of athletic training, as opposed to the informal type of training that has prevailed in recent years.

Superintendent Burton stated that military and naval authorities object to schools attempting to give military training, but that they welcome efforts to build up the boys' physiques and develop their physical stamina, as outlined in school training suggestions issued by the army and navy.

Those conferring agreed that any steps toward a more rigorous physical training program in the schools must first have the support of the parents of the boys and girls now in junior and senior high schools. It was the consensus of opinion that Federation representatives physical training should have the same consideration in the curriculum that other studies do.

Both superintendents Burton and Syling stressed the fact that proper nutrition is also a problem in building up the health of teen-age boys and girls which is deserving of more attention than it receives.

Before adjourning, Federation members outlined a four-point plan: 1. To contact P. T. A. organizations. 2. To contact the city school board. 3. To work toward expansion of athletic facilities at the senior high school. 4. That the president of each member club explain to her group the reason, purpose, and need, for expanding physical conditioning work in the schools.

MRS. W. A. MILLER HAS ARM BROKEN

Mrs. W. A. Miller, aged 84 years, of Highland Heights, is in the Jameson Memorial hospital, undergoing treatment for a fracture of the right arm, which she sustained, when she tripped and fell in her home about noon Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, who are venerable residents of Neshannock township, celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary on Sunday, the event being quietly spent. Mrs. Miller has a number of friends who will regret to learn of her misfortune.

AROUND CITY HALL

When the captured German field piece was removed from the Public Square for scrap it was reported the city and county would erect a monument carrying the names of the men and women who are in military service. Not long ago Finance Director Albert Hoyland drew a design for a large board on which the names were to be posted. It was also reported that the board would be placed on Courthouse hill. This proposal has received opposition from people who believe the board should be placed on the Public Square where there is now a monument to other service men.

One of the questions council must settle in making the budget for 1943 is that of salaries and wages. Practically every department in the city has asked for an increase in salary because of the increased cost of living (and there is no disputing it has increased). Council will also study out whether or not they will be required to ask the federal government agency for approval to raise the wages. Some claim it will, others do not believe so. However, in commenting in council recently relative to money boosts, two city officials asserted that "if one receives a raise, others will."

Morale Movies By OWI Are Available

Thanksgiving Services To Be Held In Various Sections Of The City

Miss Marie Hay, Girl Scout executive, and J. J. Finnessy, Boy Scout executive, gave general outline of scouting and spoke of their work here in New Castle at the meeting of the New Castle Ministerial Association held Monday morning in First Presbyterian church. They were introduced by Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, chairman of the program committee.

Dr. S. E. Irvine presided at this meeting which opened with devotions conducted by Rabbi Leo E. Turitz. Dr. G. S. Bennett gave the final report of the welcome-wagon committee and Rev. Adam E. Simon reported for the radio committee.

By act of the association, the Thanksgiving services schedule will be as in previous years with service on the North Hill, South Side, East Side, downtown and in Mahoningtown.

Rev. Clyde Roland announced that Rev. W. A. Thornton of Epworth Methodist church will conduct a union service in the Mahoning Methodist church next Sunday evening, for Mahoningtown churches, relative to local conditions. Following, Rev. F. P. Sullivan of the Italian Methodist church announced his church's annual spaghetti supper to be served Thursday evening, November 5, at the Cathedral.

Rabbi Turitz, for the committee on the conference of Christians and Jews, announced that a poster contest is being conducted by the National Conference and has been referred to the high school art department. The association endorsed American Education Week, November 8-14.

Announcement was then made by Rev. A. M. Stump of the resignation of Rev. Charles J. Burton as pastor of St. Andrew's Episcopal church. Mr. Burton is leaving to become rector of St. Thomas church in Buffalo, N. Y. The meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. Clyde Roland.

On Monday morning, November 16, the association will again meet in the First Presbyterian church with Miss Alice Sterling, public librarian, a speaker. This will be a part of the program for National Book Week.

Students Select Nineteen Fields Of College Study

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 3.—Nineteen major fields of study have been selected by Westminster's 230 freshmen men and women, according to records filed by the students.

Courses in chemistry, biology and physics attract the greatest number of this year's freshman class. Of the 48 registered in these departments nearly half are girls.

Secretarial science ranks near the top with 22 enrolled. An exceptionally large number expressed their interest in the music department. Business administration was chosen by 20.

Sixty-eight students were undecided as to which field they would like to major in and are taking a liberal arts course.

In addition to those named the following courses are included in the fields chosen by this year's freshman class:

Pre-engineering, journalism, commerce, teaching, mathematics, pre-law, art, economics, history, public school music, teacher's training, English and languages.

British Subject Pays With Life For Treachery

(International News Service)
LONDON, Nov. 3.—Duncan Scott-Ford, a British subject, was executed today at Wadsworth prison after conviction on charges of treachery. It was officially announced.

Scott-Ford up until the time of his arrest was a merchant seaman on a British vessel making regular trips to Lisbon, Portugal.

He was charged with imparting information to Germany. The case was cited as an illustration of the technique used by enemy agents in collecting information from British and other Allied seamen.

Soldier Bayonets Deer In Practice

(International News Service)
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 3.—The bayonet instructor of Company C, 353rd Infantry stationed at Camp Carson, reported today that one of his star pupils, Corp. Floyd Kephart, was "catching on quick."

Kephart, with his squad, was on a two-day maneuver in the mountains above the camp. During a practice night attack on an "enemy objective" the company was advancing with fixed bayonets. Suddenly a shadowy form darted past Kephart. Like a well trained soldier, he lunged at it with his bayonet.

The result: one dead deer. Since the game warden could find nothing in the rules against hunting deer at night with a bayonet, the company had roast venison at mess time.

WHOSE SAVINGS ARE IN YOUR ELECTRIC COMPANY?

Look at the stockholder list at the right. It's a cross-section of America. The Pennsylvania Power Co. could show a similar list — with some of your neighbors on it.

Besides these thousands of direct investors, there are millions more whose interest is indirect but no less real. Banks and insurance companies put much of their money — your money — into electric securities. That gives almost every American a stake in the industry.

In a very real sense, the electric companies represent the savings of the same people they serve. These people have entrusted their savings to business management under public regulation — practical business management that has given the average American home twice as much electricity for its money in the last 10 to 15 years — and is producing seven-eighths of the nation's vast supply of power.

Third Group Of Pilots Arrives At Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 3.—Westminster college's third group of army-navy service pilot trainees arrived on the campus here Monday to begin eight weeks of basic training. The group consists of 10 men from the army and 10 navy fliers.

The college's last group of potential glider, transport and service fliers finished their course of study Saturday and will be sent to advanced instruction bases.

Living in the regular college men's dormitory, the new student fliers will study ground course subjects at the college and take flying lessons at the New Castle airport under instructions from the Wilson aviation school.

Given under the sponsorship of the government's civilian pilot training program, the course at Westminster is under the direction of Dean Maxwell R. Kelso, CPT coordinator.

Widow Of Eugene A. Calabrese Searches Stocks, Manuscripts

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Rose La Mas Calabrese, widow of Eugene Adam Calabrese, onetime wealthy New York and Scranton broker and importer, arrived in Harrisburg Monday in search of valuable personal effects which were lost when 230 pieces of furniture were sold at a public auction last month.

Mrs. Calabrese, who now resides in Philadelphia and New York, listed among the effects she sought to recover stocks valued at $1320, promissory notes for $1500, two manuscripts of short stories, her marriage certificate, a key to a safe deposit vault and other family treasures.

The furniture was disposed of on October 24 at a public sale conducted by a Harrisburg storage company. Mrs. Calabrese inserted newspaper advertisements in an effort to obtain the return of the articles.

Undeclared and untied thus far, the local gridsters are physically set for what should be a tussle crammed with thrills from start to finish.

Sallie Fast

Franklin has two of the speediest runners in several years. The carriers are Sallie and Benignas. Sallie is as elusive as a fawn. Benignas packs power in his legs. The line is well-balanced from end to end.

Washington's lineup is jammed with talent. Quarterback Gunn is following in his older brother's (Jesse) footsteps. Walls is a terrific fullback. Post, who may not start, is a pretty to look at runner.

The line is solid. Garberry, at right end, has class galore; so has Preston. Alsopp, Reed and Brothers. Coaches Cowmewood and Alexander both use the Warner system. From a single wing formation the tutors have developed unusually smooth running attacks.

Franklin takes the field as defending champion.

Josh Cody Named Temple Cage Boss

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Josh Cody, football line coach, today was named mentor of Temple university's basketball team to succeed Ernie Messikomer, now a lieutenant in the navy. During his 17 years of training quints Cody turned out the Mercer college five which won the southern intercollegiate A. A. crown in 1922 and in 1927 the Vanderbilt squad which took the Southern Conference honors.

While Whirly has beaten Riverland in a previous match, the Louisiana stable entry last week conquered Alsab at Empire City and has won $44,860 in his last 16 starts. Whirly will seek his third purse in 11 days. He won the $14,350 Washington handicap at Laurel a week ago Saturday and then walked all alone to take the $10,000 Pimlico Special last Wednesday.

Also due to go to the post in the mile and three-sixteenths event are Cordovan and Gramps, of Green-tree stable; Rough Pass, who won the Riggs handicap in 1940 and is running for Yancy Christmas; and Equinox and Pictor, owned by William L. Brann. Pictor won the Riggs last year.

Whirly will cart 130 pounds to the post while Riverland has been allotted 116.

PHILADELPHIA—Still elated by Penn's smashing victory over Army's Cadets, Coach George Munger today studied plans by which he hopes to sink the Navy at Franklin Field Saturday. Scouts returning from the Notre Dame-Navy game reported the Middies "are much stronger, faster and hitting with more power than they have had all season."

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Iowa fans were cheered today by the return to practice of End Bill Burkett and Fullback Dick Hoerner, who have been out of action with injuries. The Hawkeyes overhauled their air attack in preparation for Saturday's homecoming game against Wisconsin.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Otto Graham, whose injuries kept him out of the Minnesota game, got back into action today as Northwestern's Wildcats opened their campaign for the Illinois encounter. Scholastic, College Sports Continuance Is Desired By Army

Should Be Carried On As Long As Possible, Physical Head Asserts

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Athletic directors and participants throughout the land were visibly heartened today by the news that the army wants competitive sports continued in high schools and colleges for the duration.

"The army still believes competitive sports should be carried on as long as it is at all possible," Colonel Theodore Bank, head of the Army Physical Fitness Program, declared at a Maxwell Memorial Football club gathering.

"We attach great importance to them in our own training program and they are neither a leisure time occupation nor a supplement to the program. They are definitely part of the program."

"There is no reason why football, for instance, should not continue unless transportation difficulties make that impossible. In that connection it might be possible for a team to play its neighborhood rival two or three times a season."

"In any event, we do hope school and college sports will not be eliminated."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Effect of the global war is having its effect on attendance at sporting events throughout the nation and as time passes on no doubt many promotions will be staged where there will be as many empty as filled seats. New Castle high has been drawing wonderful crowds to the football games and no doubt will continue to draw at basketball games. This is because of the 'personal touch'.

Practically everyone in New Castle has 'someone' or a relative in high school. Every student is an exploitation artist. Usually the dinner table is the place where the boys and girls extol the virtues of the team and, within a short time, everyone around it, is interested and the folks go out to see the home eleven play. However, college football in some sections is drawing poor.

In pro' football the Steelers, while winning bagged fans. In fisties, especially where there is no home town flavor, the fans do not take so eagerly to the punch sport. However, one week ago Monday night the usual turn-out occurred at the Arena.

If U.S. Marine Sergeant Jimmy Final appears in the next show, a good crowd is likely. Another chap who pleased the fans was Al Sanders, the "Georgia Cracker." He was a tough nut and with real training, may prove tougher. Peculiar, Al is. He has a job that pays him big money yet he likes to fight in the amateurs because, he told us yesterday: "I like to fight."

Al Irwin, a 20-year veteran of coaching and other administration work at Carnegie Tech, has resigned to enter defense work. Whirly will race in the $10,000 added Riggs handicap at Pimlico today. Riverland is his chief opposition. Riverland beat Alsab Saturday.

NOT OFFICIAL
Ted Williams, in the American League, and Ernie Lombardi, of the Braves, have been acclaimed the hitting champions of 1942, but the official averages won't be out until December.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Harvard, upset victor over Princeton last week, was off to a flying start today in its preparation for the Michigan game Saturday. Because the squad must leave for Ann Arbor Thursday, a workout replaced the usual Monday rest yesterday.

AL PICCUTA

Talented Al Piccuta, who starred at New Castle high in 1936, '37 and '38, has joined the United States Naval Reserve. Members of his family disclosed today.

The Seventh ward athlete, a senior at John Carroll university, Cleveland, Ohio, is starring at left guard for the Streaks and is also the team's captain.

A top ranking student, Piccuta will be sheep-skinned in January, a month before he reaches his 22nd birthday.

Now on the inactive duty role, Piccuta may be called shortly after graduation time.

The well-liked sports figure, who resides at 205 West Wabash avenue, has been classified as one of the chief linemen produced at Ne-Ca-Hi. In the classroom, Al has always been at the head.

Dudley Is Current Whiz In Pro Ranks

Pittsburgh Steeler Back Is Talk Of Loop; Came From Virginia

By LEONARD ROBERTS
(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—A likeable, brown-haired kid has been the margin of difference his year between a tail-end club and a pennant contender for the National Professional Football league title.

And the kid, otherwise known as Bill Dudley, halfback and mainstay of the Pittsburgh Steelers, led his teammates to victory over the New York Giants in their own back yard Sunday in the "make or break" tilt for the Smoky City team this season.

It was only a year ago that the 20-year-old Dudley punted, passed and rushed himself into all-American honors at the University of Virginia. But a compilation of statistics showed that the rookie, in the first five contests he had played, gained 1,024 yards on 169 attempts for an average of six yards per try.

"Who couldn't gain with the line we have?" Dudley asked. "Some of those holes the boys open up are big enough to drive through in the General Grant tank. I had some wonderful blocking last year at Virginia but they didn't knock the boys over like the Steelers do."

Coach Walter Kiesling said that Dudley has given the Steelers "something that no other team in the league has and that's the old college try. My team plays just like a bunch of kids and they're trying every minute."

Say Dudley Best
Both Kiesling and co-owners Bert Bell and Art Rooney, who've seen many a football player cavort on the gridiron, unhesitatingly pick Dudley as the greatest player ever to play for Pittsburgh. And for your information, fellow readers, it wasn't long ago that Byron "Whizzer" White, the $15,000 beauty from the University of Colorado, wore the black and gold here.

"White may have had more natural ability than Dudley," Kiesling said, "but Bill has more grit and determination than any ball player I've ever seen. Too, he's a real spark plug for this ball club and their improvement may be traced, to a great extent, to his inspirational leadership."

"Last year and in the years before I thought there was no spirit in pro ball," he said. "It struck me as being a business. Well, I really got a surprise when I saw how these young men into the services as the pro footballers, proportionately. This is no reflection on the others. It merely means that these gents are at about the right age and to them physical combat is a thing they thrive on. They have been schooled in it all their lives."

All they want to know is where the action is going to be and what time it starts.

They Want Action
One of them who is making application for the Marine Corps was discussing the situation and I suggested that the Air Corps looked like a great thing, and he said he had thought of that and talked about it.

"But I weigh close to 240 pounds," he said. "I'd never get off the ground as a flyer. They wouldn't let me. And if I couldn't be a bombardier or a gunner of some kind it wouldn't be any fun."

They hope the war won't last too long and that they can come back to their wives and pro football, but in the meantime they hope they can get some action.

And that means the end of pro football until the finish of the war.

Twenty Minor Leaguers Move Into Majors During Draft Session

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Twenty minor league baseball players moved up into the majors today by way of the draft. Many of them have been up before, and a number obviously were selected because of their probable immunity, for a season at least, from another draft—the army's.

The Chicago White Sox laid out the most money, selecting three players from class AA for a total expenditure of $22,500. The drawing was held in the office of Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Five of the 16 clubs put in no claim for minor league players. They were the Boston Braves, Detroit Tigers, New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals and New York Yankees. No club picked more than three players.

Pittsburgh grabbed Pitcher Wally Hebert, San Diego, California and Pitcher Ed Albosta, Montreal.

Cleveland came up with Pitcher Jack Salveson, of Oakland, California.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The players themselves are seeing it that the National professional football league is through for the duration after this season.

With more than 200 of them already in the services, the rest are making their plans to do what they can and when the 1943 campaign rolls around most of them will be detained elsewhere. They have a lot to learn for the Marines. They don't want soft snaps. They're looking for action.

Giants Through
The New York Giants, generally tough contenders, eastern champions or league champions, are shot this season due to losses to the services and their holdovers are making plans to leap in as soon as the current campaign is done with. In fact, some of them already have signed up. The same goes for the rest of the clubs.

Andy Marefos, formerly of St. Mary's and now the Giants' fullback, got married Sunday night with his teammates among the guests of honor at a reception, and they spent at least part of their time discussing the future strictly in terms of warfare.

The Giants always have been known as a settled club—one made up of married men in the majority. Many of them have children. They're not old—really just a gang of young gents ranging in age from the early 20's to the late 20's, with a scant few in the 30's. But there is nothing settled or conservative about them when they discuss this war.

They plan to get into the middle of it quickly as possible and by the first of the year the National League will be represented in the services by at least 300 players.

They were talking about the future of professional football with the conviction that it will grow and thrive after the war is over beyond even the prosperity it now enjoys.

They think that the National League has been tremendously stabilized in the last couple of years and that all of the teams now are on firm footing, whereas in the past a few have enjoyed success while some of the others floundered.

That, however, is not regarded as important right now to these gents with a yen to wring a Jap's neck and put a neat, well-tied bow knot in his legs. I doubt that any one branch of athletics has sent as many men into the services as the pro footballers, proportionately. This is no reflection on the others. It merely means that these gents are at about the right age and to them physical combat is a thing they thrive on. They have been schooled in it all their lives.

All they want to know is where the action is going to be and what time it starts.

They Want Action
One of them who is making application for the Marine Corps was discussing the situation and I suggested that the Air Corps looked like a great thing, and he said he had thought of that and talked about it.

"But I weigh close to 240 pounds," he said. "I'd never get off the ground as a flyer. They wouldn't let me. And if I couldn't be a bombardier or a gunner of some kind it wouldn't be any fun."

They hope the war won't last too long and that they can come back to their wives and pro football, but in the meantime they hope they can get some action.

And that means the end of pro football until the finish of the war.

SLIGHT LULL HITS LOCAL GRID CARD

New Castle Heads Program; Bessemer, Union Hang Up Moleskins

There's a lull in the local football caravan this week.

Undeclared New Castle high holds the No. 1 spot on the program. Under Taggart stadium's bright lights, the 'Canes battle Campbell Memorial high on Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Ellwood City moves over to Beaver Falls to ring down its campaign on Friday night.

Shenango Township, which extended Bessemer last Friday, closes its campaign with a road engagement, facing Greenville on Saturday.

Westminster College battles a key rival on Saturday afternoon, facing Grove City in the Grovers' den on Saturday.

Bessemer and Union Township have completed their grid season.

Sports Prepare Men For Combat, Lift Morale, Big Ten Head States

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Declaring that college football and other spectator sports are justifying their existence for the war's duration, Maj. John L. Griffith today challenged high schools and colleges to show just cause why interscholastic athletics should be cancelled.

Maj. Griffith, western conference athletic commissioner, told the quarterback in Chicago:

"Sports administer to the national morale as they help to neutralize the emotional stress of war. They better prepare young men for combat duty and they provide funds for army and navy relief, the USO and other worthy causes."

"At the time of World War I, it was quite clearly established that when German officers were killed in an attack, the enlisted men seemed bewildered and lacking in initiative to take command. On the other hand, American officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned, were killed, invariably there was some enlisted man who could step out and lead the others."

"I was told by men who knew the German situation, as well as by our own officers, that this difference in self reliance of soldiers of the two armies could be credited, at least in part, to the different types of physical training the soldiers had received as youngsters."

Fallen Leaves Are Good Fertilizer

One Ton Of Oak Leaves Has Chemical Value Of About Five Dollars

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—The leaves that are now falling from forest trees have a very high fertilizer value, says Research Forester Albert B. Mickalitis of the department of forests and waters.

The present year has been an unusual one for a large amount of foliage due to many rains during the growing season. Studies show that one ton of oak leaves has a chemical value of approximately $5.00 and contains 28 pounds of phosphate, 18.8 pounds of nitrogen, and 7 pounds of potash. It is estimated that two tons of leaves fall to the ground yearly on an acre of stocked oak forest. Leaves are an important factor in building up forest soil and a good mulch of foliage stimulates tree growth. When fires occur in the forests, burning the leaf litter and humus, the nitrogen is lost although a large amount of the potash remains on the ground. The protection of forests from fire not only preserves them from destruction but also assures the continuance of a forest cover as every tree has fertility year by year and at the same time grows in wood value. A thrifty growth of trees is promoted by abundant leaf fall and in forests protected from fire they are enabled to reach larger size and add a greater amount of fertility to the soil.

Hardwood trees are not the only ones that shed their leaves. Pine trees retain some needles for two or more years. In early August of each year there is present on white pine trees all of the needle crop from two years in a fully developed condition. This is the time of heavy shade and foliage in the pine forests. The older needles begin to drop shortly after this and the heaviest fall is in early autumn just before the hardwoods shed their leaves.

Sunlight is the power and the leaf surface is the window through which nature transforms a little earth, some water, and carbon dioxide into wood.

Creates Map Of South America 300 Years Ago

(International News Service)
CINCINNATI, O.—There were once three South American continents instead of one, in the opinion of a University of Cincinnati paleogeographer.

After a five-year study, Dr. Kenneth E. Caster, professor of geology at the university, has produced a map which is believed to be the first complete picture of the face of South America as it appeared some 250 to 300 million years ago. In that era, great seas covered South America in the region now marked by the Andean mountains and spread widely across southern Brazil and the Amazon valley.

Instead of one immense triangular land mass as it is now, South America was then made up of three great land masses separated by wide seas. Dr. Caster's map shows these ancient continental areas extending far into the regions now the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and Caribbean sea.

Dr. Caster also believes that seas covered large areas of South America for hundreds of millions of years and that the present aspect of the continent came into being only a few tens of thousands of years ago—just a matter of a few yesterday's in geologic time.

Gather Wild Food Plants With Care

Dandelions, Sorrel, Acorns, Watercress Nutritious, But Some Species Poisonous

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 3.—Palatable foods of economic value such as fruits, berries and wild plants are not uncommon in the forests of Pennsylvania, and from reports received throughout the state apparently a large number of persons are gathering them, probably in view of the fact that there may be a scarcity of some of the unusual domesticated foods.

Deputy Secretary Charles E. Baer of the Department of Forests and Waters states that persons selecting these nutritious foods should use extra care and take only those that they can positively identify. Most of these wild species are harmless, a small number poisonous under some conditions, and a few are toxic. Among the minor herbage vegetables the dandelion is perhaps the most popular in Pennsylvania. Sorrels are appetizing greens and water cress, an aquatic perennial, is used extensively.

Nuts from trees and shrubs have been used as essential food in various countries where meat is scarce. Acorns of oaks are especially nutritious and furnish as much as 25 percent of food of some people living in certain sections of foreign countries. Acorns of almost any species of oak are edible after the tannin has been removed by bleaching and acorn flour is used today in some sections of the United States. Nut fruits such as hickories, walnuts and hazelnuts are common in the forests of the state.

Care should be exercised in gathering the poisonous berries of the moonseed vine which are sometimes mistaken for wild grapes. Included in the noxious plants are the American false hellebore, pokeweed and buttercups.

Report $2,876 In War Fund Drive

First Report Is Made In Campaign To Raise $18,300 In Ellwood

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—The United War Fund reached the $2,876.40 mark in the first two actual working days of the campaign. This amount includes a small proportion of the amount being solicited through the workers of the National Tube Company and Company contributions from the Ellwood Forge Company, Ellwood City Forge Company, the American Steel Company, Ellwood City Ledger and a few organizations in the community. Everyone in Ellwood City is responding marvelously to the campaign and it will be that spirit that will put the drive across with flying colors.

Management and Labor are working in a most harmonious accord in the United War Fund campaign and only in Ellwood City but all over the country. Business establishments, schools, garages and service stations are being solicited today and the results of this effort should swell the totals for tomorrow's War Fund financial report.

Some workers who live in Butler County made a contribution in that County War Fund Campaign and also were patriotic enough to make a contribution to the local war fund. Officials of the drive are going to make every effort to go my way over the $18,300.00 quota before the end of the campaign which is November 15.

Scrap Campaign For Sector Three Air Raid Post

ELLWOOD CITY, November 3.—Sector III Air Raid Post which covers the territory from the Connequeness Creek to Beechwood Boulevard and from 5th street west to Park Gate, will start an extensive scrap campaign on Thursday at one o'clock.

Chairman Gene Lebowitz state today that the ladies of the Post will play an important part in the drive as they will solicit the scrap by going from house to house. Everyone in Sector III Area are urged to have their scrap ready as on Thursday the work will start in the territory of the fire station and work right through the territory. Proceeds from the scrap will be used to purchase Air Raid equipment for the Post and the scrap will be shipped immediately to the steel mills.

A safe has been already given over to the drive and if anyone is missed on the drive they are urged to call Lawrence Powers at 508 or Gene Lebowitz at 1252-J.

Mothers Club Hears Ellwood Librarian

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—When members of the Mothers Study club met last evening at the home of Mrs. Edwin Geddes, Glen avenue, they heard an interesting talk by Mrs. Catherine M. Charles, librarian.

Books for pre-school children were discussed and exhibited by the speaker who urged that every child be taught to like books at a very young age. Nineteen members attended.

During the evening a tempting lunch was served by the hostess and her aides, Mrs. Richard Trimble and Mrs. George McGrann.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Colazzi, Johnson Drive.

Tire Inspection To Be Discussed

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Meeting of all garages in the community has been called for Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Joe Summers, president of the Automobile Dealers Association will preside over the meeting. Business relative to the tire inspection law will be discussed.

EVENING GUILD AT STREETER'S

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—The Evening Guild of the First Presbyterian church was welcomed last evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Streeter, Marion Farms, with Mrs. Robert Curry being a special guest. Mrs. Harold McKim was in charge with the Bible study being continued by Mrs. Judd Turner. The hostess was aided in serving a refreshing lunch by Miss Marjorie Streeter. On Monday, December 7, the Guild meets at the church to pack a Christmas box.

Ministers Plan Annual Service

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—When members of the Ministerial Association met for the November meeting on Monday morning in the Presbyterian church study, it was decided to have the annual United Thanksgiving morning worship service in the Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. J. W. Gladden, new pastor of the First Methodist church, will be the speaker.

Rev. J. E. Caughey and Rev. W. Dale Frye were named by president, Rev. Herman Patton, as a committee to plan programs for the year's meetings. A short talk on problems of the hour was given by Dr. A. M. Stevenson.

Contributions were voted to the Boy and Girl Scout movements and to the United War Drive. Monday, December 6, is the time of the next meeting.

Junior High Class To Present Play Wednesday Night

"Main Street Prince" To Be Enacted By Large Cast At Lincoln Auditorium

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Wednesday night, November 4, at 8:15 o'clock the Dramatic club of Lincoln high school will present a play, "Main Street Prince", in the high school auditorium. It is sponsored by the Junior class.

It is the story of a typical family of the middle class, living in a small American town. The arrival of a foreign prince is like a bombshell uprooting all their ideas of life. Mr. Smith, played by Ben Carbeau, is the average American business man with a family, who realizes they run him but doesn't know what to do about it. Ann Stasick portrays the part of Mrs. Smith. Curtis, 18, is concerned with the pleasure of the day, and is enacted by Jimmy Resman. Angela, Loreta Wilson, is the counterpart of Curtis, intent on having a good time, modern version.

"Bud" Lynn plays the part of Earl Dawson, Angela's heart thro. Marcia, Helen Young, is Curtis' girl friend. Vera Jean Smith plays the role of Fay, the youngest of the Smiths. Amy, the maid, will be Gloria Giovanni. "Bud" Watson plays the part of Roddy, Fay's boy friend.

Douglass Ferguson is the "prince", suave and manly. Joan and Judy, played by Clara Herrin and Betty Luther, are two high school girls of the "Oh" and "Ah" type. Alqui Santis is the "mystery" woman.

The play has a fine cast and is one that will provide plenty of laughs for the audience.

Rose Partridge Given Farewell

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Miss Rose Partridge was delightfully surprised last evening when members of the Harriet Gordon class of the Wurtenburg U. P. church assembled at her Ellport home for a farewell party.

Miss Partridge left today for Washington where she has accepted a government position.

The group of nineteen members and three guests, Mrs. Jack Partridge, Mrs. Margaret Vogler and Mrs. Bunny Partridge, enjoyed a delicious "pot-luck" supper after which the evening was spent informally.

The guest of honor was presented with a number of lovely handkerchiefs.

Junior High Team Will Be Treated

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—This year's great undefeated Ellwood Junior high football team will be fittingly feted at a dinner on Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock at the McDowell House.

The event has been arranged by Coach, Harold L. Barry, and the emphasis will be on good food and lots of it. Senior high coaches, "Coach" Croft and Howard Gills, will be among the guests.

After an informal program, the entire squad will be guests at the Majestic theater through the courtesy of Andy Biorci.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Announcements have been received here of the birth of a son to Aviation Cadet and Mrs. Russell Sibole, formerly of this city, now of Santa Ana, Calif., on October 26. Mrs. Sibole is the former Esther Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards, Burnstown.

Boy Scout Council Leaders Selected

Nelson Runyan And Erle B. Yahn Head Youth Organization For Coming Year

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Nelson Runyan was chosen chairman and Erle B. Yahn, vice chairman, of the Ellwood City District Boy Scout Council annual dinner meeting held last evening at the Trinity Lutheran church.

Sixteen members at large were also elected and the Ellwood officers with the county executive will name a district commissioner. William Blank is the acting secretary of the council. Boyd Barrett is the retiring chairman.

With 105 scouts and guests in attendance, the event was most successful.

Frank Goff, chairman of arrangements, was the toastmaster and the guest speaker was Charles G. Robertson, scout executive, of Beaver, whose impressive address emphasized the high type of manhood associated with the youth movement.

Annual reports were given by the various chairmen including: Finance, J. J. McLaughlin; advancement, W. E. Mitchell, who pointed out that more than 300 boys had made advancement in the past year; Elden Danner, district commissioner; Howard Gills and Harold Bury; camping and activities.

Greetings were extended by county scout executive, J. J. Finnessy, and Charles W. Carbeau, president of the county council. The opening ceremony was conducted by Dr. A. M. Stevenson with Miss Margaret Patton offered the invocation and the allegiance pledge was led by Merle Shilling.

Methodist Class Marks Anniversary

Friendship Circle Class Has Twenty-Ninth Birthday Dinner Monday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—The Friendship Circle class of the First Methodist church celebrated their twenty-ninth anniversary with a delightful tureen dinner last evening at the church.

The forty attending were served a tempting dinner by a committee, Mrs. J. N. Welling, Mrs. Herbert Smiley, Mrs. Charles Anderson, Mrs. Effie Dunkle and Mrs. John Graham.

Devotions were led by Mrs. Emery Neuman after which Mrs. C. C. Hall and Mrs. Harold Snyder were in charge of the program.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Gladden were special guests and gave short talks. Past teachers attending were Mrs. Vere Daubenspeck, who gave a most interesting history of the class; Mrs. Minnie Reynolds, Mrs. Harry Reynolds, and Mrs. A. O. McCurdy, present teacher. A former teacher, Mrs. Mary Slingsby, is ill and was unable to attend.

Business was in charge of president, Mrs. Reed Hall with Mrs. Effie Dunkle being named the new press secretary. Another meeting will be held on the first Monday of December at the church.

Past Officers Feted At Dinner

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Last evening members of the Past Officers of the Orange Ladies Lodge were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mrs. Jesse Dougherty, New Castle road, for a Thanksgiving dinner. Mrs. Ethel Callahan was co-hostess.

A delectable turkey dinner was served to twenty members and two large tables decorated with gourds and fruits.

Awards for cards went to Mrs. Lottie Frye and Mrs. Susie Seeth and for bingo to Mr. Pearl Brown and Mrs. Henrietta Davis.

The December meeting will be in the form of a Christmas dinner at a nearby dining room.

MRS. FERD ZEIGLER HOSTESS TO GROUP

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Ferd Zeigler entertained members of the Monday club at her home, in Pittsburgh Circle.

Bridge was featured with the high score honor going to Mrs. Loren Springer.

After the hostess served a tempting lunch, members departed to meet again in two weeks at the home of Mrs. T. V. Barnes, Lawrence avenue.

Memorial Program Here On Sunday In Charge Of Legion

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 3.—Commander Dan Evans conducted the Randolph Post meeting last night at the Sixth street Legion hall with 119 members being reported to date in the membership campaign.

Arrangements were completed for the annual Sunday evening memorial service to be held in the Lincoln high school auditorium with Judge W. Walter Braham, New Castle, as the speaker. The complete program will be announced.

The post will take part in the Beaver county Armistice Day celebration at New Brighton. A short parade and program will be held at Legion Park before the group goes to the valley for the 7 p. m. parade.

A donation was voted to the United War drive. Russell Koch caught the kitty after which refreshments were served.

For the next meeting on Monday, November 16, the post will have the auxiliary as guests to hear a talk by Rev. John C. Smith, recently returned missionary from Japan.

Navy, War Offices To Share Building

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Secretary of the Navy Knox announced today that he has accepted a War department invitation to share space in the latter's huge new Pentagon building, and that most of the Navy's key Washington personnel will be moved there.

The building, largest office structure in the world, is located in Arlington county, Virginia, across the Potomac river from Washington. Some War department offices recently were moved into it, and the offices of both Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary Knox are scheduled to be set up there.

News Briefs From City Hall

City of New Castle street department is without its new warehouse because of priorities. After some deliberation council decided to build a warehouse in Taylor street and then discovered it would be difficult to secure the materials, hence there will be a long haul every day it is necessary to take out equipment during the winter because the present quarters are in Mahoning avenue vicinity, the city having turned over its George street building for industrial purposes.

City officials are hopeful that weather does not become unsuitable for the resurfacing program. The city got started late on its project and desired that it be completed before snow interfered with the work.

Preventing Next War Up To Women

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Women all over the world have a personal obligation to direct their thinking along international lines after the war, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today.

Declaring she felt a sense of responsibility to reach all women everywhere with this message, Mrs. Roosevelt warned: "Otherwise I see very little hope of preventing a repetition of what we are going through now."

Mrs. Roosevelt today visited a nursery of the women's voluntary services, where three-year old Terry Anthony, an evacuee from London, sang a nursery rhyme for her.

New Crisis In Vichy France

Laval Meeting Little Success In Effort To Get Laborers For Germany

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Events in Vichy France today are believed to be heading toward a grave new crisis, both in respect to the internal political situation and in the relations with Germany.
It would come as no surprise to authoritative quarters in Washington if Germany eventually extends its military occupation of France to certain strategic areas now in the unoccupied zone.
Diplomatic advisers reaching Washington indicate that feeling is running high in unoccupied France against the effort of French Premier Pierre Laval to persuade 150,000 French workers to accept forced labor in Germany.
Berlin has given Laval until Nov. 30 to deliver that number of French workers to Germany. So far, Laval has been attempting to persuade the workers to enlist for labor in Germany on a voluntary basis. Notice has been sent to various factories designating the number of workers wanted in each. The workers, however, have been refusing to sign up, and in many instances have quit their jobs in protest.
Informed American sources consider it highly unlikely that Laval will be able to get the required 150,000 workers to enlist voluntarily. If he resorts to outright compulsion, it is believed that he will precipitate serious internal disorders in unoccupied France.

Rotarians Hear Governor Prather Speak On Monday

District Head Of Rotary Club Makes Official Visit To New Castle Club

District Governor Thomas Prather of Meadville, addressed members of the New Castle Rotary club at their weekly luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Monday noon, when he reminded them of their obligations of service to the community.
Judge Prather's address was of interest to all the members and he injected some homely philosophy into his remarks. He stated that how one stamps his personality on the community is what counts, and urged the local club to stamp itself on the community with a record for service.
He recalled his early friendships with local members, particularly with past president Fred L. Rentz.
Dr. Frederick Taylor of the New Wilmington club was a guest, and issued an invitation to the members to attend the annual buckwheat rodeo of the New Wilmington club on November 10.
Merle Ranier was admitted as a new member, being introduced by Frank L. Orth. Kleth Van Fossen, the new scoutmaster of Rotary troop, was also a dinner guest and was introduced to the club.

Army Deserter Kadens On Trial

Judge Orders Immediate Trial After Outlaw, Robber Asails Own Lawyer

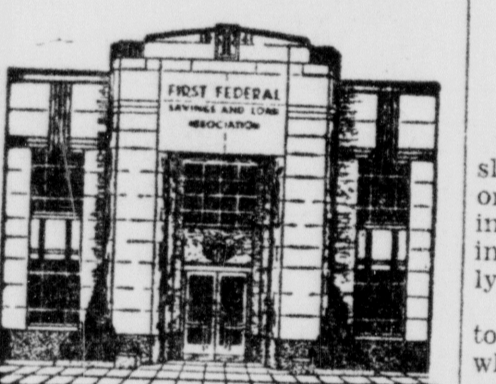

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Irwin Kadens, 33-year-old army deserter and outlaw who blazed a trail of crime across four middlewestern states, went to trial in criminal court Monday on a charge of robbery.
The former Chicago postal employee who has admitted more than 75 crimes, assailed his own lawyer, Attorney Charles A. Bellows who asked for continuance for a week.
Kadens said: "I object to any further continuance. I want my own lawyer. I'd like to fire this guy."
Putting an end to the unusual scene, Judge John S. Shabbaro ordered Kadens to trial at once.

Farm-Slaughtered Meat Shared Too

Voluntary Two And Half Pound Allowance Means Non-Commercial Slaughter As Well

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Meat slaughtered on farms for home use or purchased by families for storage in freezer lockers, should be counted in the 2½ pounds voluntary weekly sharing allowance.
Secretary of agriculture Wickard today had pointed out that all meat, whether slaughtered on farms or commercially, makes up the total supply available to consumers. He said that non-commercial slaughter amounts to about 3,500,000,000 pounds annually.
Under the sharing allowance Wickard said, each child under six years of age should receive three-quarters of a pound weekly, each child from six to 12 should receive 1½ pounds, and persons over 12 years old should be restricted to 2½ pounds.

Doubts Waring's View Is Legion's

Rankin Declares Majority Of Legion Favors Year's Training For 18, 19 Year Olds

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Rep. Rankin (D. Miss.), one of the advocates of the prohibition against sending 18-19 year old youths into active combat without a year's training, declared Monday that he did not believe that National Commander Roane Waring of the American Legion "speaks for a majority of the individual legionnaires" in opposing the restriction.
"I probably hear from as many of them as he does," said Rankin, who is chairman of the house committee on world war veterans legislation.
"The ones I hear from are almost unanimous in their support of the prohibition."

"WAR IS FOUGHT IN THE HOMES TOO,"

SAYS SECRETARY MORGENTHAU

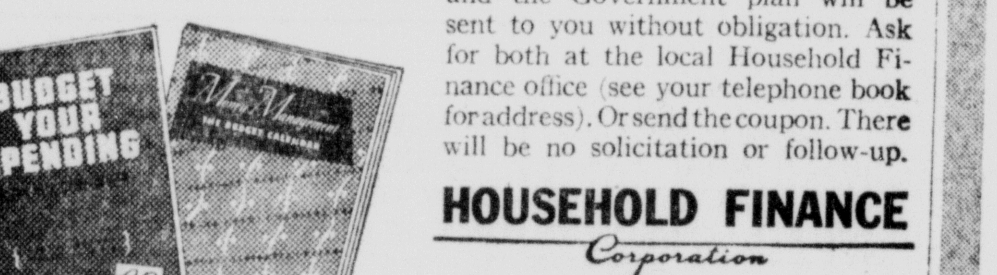

Family budgeting urged by two government departments—Here's a simple plan to help you

"THIS WAR is not fought by armies and navies alone," recently said Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr. "It is fought too in the homes. Every time you forego unnecessary spending you help to win the war. . . . We must cut our budgets drastically to conserve materials needed for the war. . . . We have got to discipline ourselves to do without things we do not actually need, and to put our earnings into War Bonds instead. . . . so that we can help our country in this war for survival and for freedom."

How the plan can help you

In this war so much depends on how we spend our money! To do its duty every family needs a financial plan. So the Government has published a simple budget method for you to use in planning your spending.

This budget plan will help you stretch your pay checks over War Bonds, contributions to USO and the Red Cross, old debts, higher taxes and increased living expenses. It's a thoroughly practical plan based upon the experience of folks with money problems just like your own. Many families have already tested the plan. They are very enthusiastic about it. The plan should be helpful to thousands of other families. That's why
